DAIRY MANAGER SURPRISES SIX-FOOT BURGLAR

C. W. McAllister Enters the Premises of Royal Dairy to Face Intruder

Burglar Was Crouched in Front of Safe, But Retreated in Haste

To disturb a burglar crouched in front of a safe on the premises of the Royal Dairy Limited, View Street, was the unusual experience of C. W. McAllister on Sunday.

Mr. McAllister returned to the office of the dairy at 7.30 o'clock last night to make sure all was in order after the closing hour at 6 p.m. The manager let himself in with a key, and was crossing the premises when the figure of a man in front of the safe brought him up with a start.

No less surprised, the burglar, who had broken his way in through a side entrance off an alleyway, rose to his feet, disclosing the figure of a six-foot man, sturdily built.

Despite the fact he was unarmed and alone with a man of much more powerful build than himself, the manager called out to the intruder, demanding an explanation of his presence.

The burglar mumbled a reply, saying he had "come for a glass of milk," and worked his way around the counter and out of the door as Mr. McAllister telephoned for the police.

The arrival of the manager interrupted the work of the marauder, the safe being found intact. It was the taking of the store from the time the burglar closed on Saturday until the close on Sunday. The sum of $5.50 was extracted from the till taken before the burglar had been surprised at his mission.

Mr. McAllister showed considerable presence of mind, retained control of his observation and as a result placed a good description of the burglar in the hands of the police, who are now at work on the case.

The attempted robbery recalls similar efforts of a year ago when clothing stores in the heart of the city were entered over the Sunday period by skylight crackmen, who lowered themselves to the inside by rope ladders and escaped with considerable booty. One pair of crackmen were caught and convicted, putting a stop to robberies in the downtown area for a considerable period.

CUSTOMS INQUIRY ON THIS COAST SOON

Commission to Come to B.C. After Resuming Sessions in Ottawa This Week

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—After a lull of a couple of weeks, Ottawa will resume its activity in Government circles next week. Members of the Cabinet are returning to their offices here and several Cabinet sittings are scheduled. It is understood that chiefly routine business awaits the Cabinet at these conferences.

On Wednesday the judicial commission which is continuing the customs inquiry is to resume its public hearings under the new chairmanship of Mr. Justice Brown. After a couple of days here the commission is scheduled to go to British Columbia and a number of hearings will be held there and on the prairies before the Ontario hearings begin.

On Thursday the Tariff Advisory Board is to reopen its hearings. The applications before the board may take a couple of days to dispose of.

CONSERVATIVES OF VANCOUVER CHOOSE KAMLOOPS DELEGATES

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—Vancouver Conservatives are to go to the primaries in the twelve polling divisions of the city to-night to select delegates to the convention to be held at Kamloops, November 23.

The forces of the two main contenders for the leadership, W. J. Bowser, K.C., and Leon J. Ladner, are both expressing confidence of the result of to-night's poll.

In the county the primaries have for the most part been held, although there are three or four constituencies which have not yet chosen their delegates.

The Skeena district was the last one to report its election. This was held last Saturday night, and according to telegraphic advices from the north the delegates are all favorable to Ladner for leader.

Brakeman Killed At Golden, B.C.

Revelstoke, Nov. 15.—Brakeman Robert Hamilton, twenty-four, was killed at Golden in a railway accident about midnight Saturday.

While riding on the tender of a pusher engine, being placed to push a freight up the hill out of Golden, he was crushed between the backing tender and a freight car.

DEFEATED IN SAANICH AND OAK BAY, LADNER ORGANIZATION NOW FACES PROTESTS IN ESQUIMALT

Victorious in Oak Bay and Saanich, opponents of Leon J. Ladner's organization on Vancouver Island started definite steps to-day to upset a meeting which last week elected Esquimalt delegates to the Conservative Convention in Kamloops.

A petition asking that another meeting be ordered in Esquimalt, in place of the assembly of fourteen which chose the Esquimalt delegation, will go to the Provincial Conservative executive shortly. It is being prepared now on the ground that the Esquimalt meeting was unconstitutional and that few knew beforehand that it was to take place.

WOMAN DIES FROM INJURY SUSTAINED ON HOLIDAY TRIP

Miss Ethel Carson, Empress Hotel Cashier, Succumbed Suddenly To-day

Seriously injured when she fell down a ravine at Clayoquot three weeks ago, Miss Ethel Carson, cashier at the Empress Hotel, died suddenly this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Carson was making a holiday trip up the West Coast on the Princess Maquinna last month, and at Clayoquot was found to be unconscious and partially paralyzed. She was placed aboard the vessel at Nootka and brought at once to Victoria.

On examination at the hospital, it was found that her spine was injured but hope was held out for her recovery. Since then she appeared to be making splendid progress and was able to sit up in bed this morning for the first time, when suddenly without warning, she collapsed and died immediately.

Miss Carson has been cashier at the Empress Hotel for some years and the news of her unexpected death cast a gloom over the whole staff.

The remains are reposing at the B.C. Funeral Chapel. Services will be held at St. Barnabas Church on Wednesday at 11 a.m. Rev. N. E. Smith officiating.

Iowa Man Killed Wife and Himself

Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 15.—John B. Keeline, former Council Bluffs miner, banker and sportsman, was shot and killed his wife, seriously wounded her sister-in-law and then killed himself.

Mrs. Keeline's sister-in-law, Mrs. Anderson, had been staying at the Keeline home where the shooting was done, during the absence of Keeline on a business trip.

Keeline was a member of one of the best known families in the district.

EASTERN CANADIAN CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Survey of Maritime Provinces Shows Steady Growth in Prosperity

Halifax, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—It needs but a cursory survey of the Maritime Provinces to find assurances there is vast improvement over a year ago.

In New Brunswick, the port of St. John last winter had the best shipping season in a number of years. Moncton as a wholesale and distribution centre is making steady headway. Crops were good, particularly potatoes.

Across Northwestern Strait, Prince Edward Island has a bumper potato crop, for which the potato pool, embracing the bulk of the growers, is getting good prices, namely, at the wharf side, $1.25 a bushel for pedigree seed and 75 cents a bushel for table potatoes.

APPLE INCREASE
In Nova Scotia, farmers of the island have gone more and more into apple-growing until it is said they are not producing enough beef, butter and eggs for the needs of the province, let alone the export market. Last year the apple crop was a partial failure and it was below the average this fall. On the other hand, the fisheries are distinctly in better condition, especially at such a centre as Lunenburg, under a co-operative system whereby the fishermen share in the profits.

COAL OPERATORS
But the greatest improvement is in the Cape Breton mining industry, where following the settlement achieved following the inquiry held by the commission composed of Mr. Andrew Duncan, Dr. H. P. McPherson and Major Hume Cronyn, work in the coal areas is at the peak, with steady employment in sight throughout the winter.

NEW MOVES AGAINST RAIDERS IN IRELAND

Man Killed in Series of Disturbances Last Night; Guards in Readiness

Disorders Cause Fears Those Favoring Republic Changing Their Tactics

Dublin, Nov. 15.—Southern Ireland is deeply agitated over raids last night on barracks of the civil guard, and belief is held that the inceptors of a new policy of the Republic.

A sergeant in charge of the barracks at St. Loukas, a residential district of Cork City, was shot and killed by raiders and another sergeant was shot and killed by a Republican. There were other raids in County Cork at Rylane, Carrillo Hill, Togher and Ballingcourt.

Several men were arrested to-day in connection with the raids, including George and Jack Plunkett, sons of Count Plunkett, a Republican member of the Dail.

Although the purpose of the raid was a mystery, one indication was that they were after was obtained at the Castle Island barracks in County Kerry, where the leader of the raiders told a sergeant the raid was wanted to see if the police had any "treasonable documents" dealing with the Irish republican army.

SUN YAT SEN EVENTS
Vancouver, Nov. 15.—Local Chinese staged a celebration yesterday afternoon in honor of Sun Yat Sen, first leader of the Chinese Republic, whose birthday fell on November 11. The anniversary was celebrated throughout the world Sunday by Oriental. A parade and mass meeting in the Chinese theatre featured the Vancouver programme.

VESSEL RAISED
Prince Rupert, Nov. 15.—Raided by the bottom of the wrecked ship Ketchikan, Alaska, nearly a week after she had sunk, the United States vessel Morco was repaired sufficiently to enable her to sail on Saturday for Seattle, her home port.

BELIEVES AVIATION SHOULD BE ENDED; SIR H. TRENCHARD

London, Nov. 15.—A surprising view of aviation is attributed to Sir Hugh Trenchard, Air Chief Marshal of Great Britain, by Professor Philip Baker of London University. Professor Baker, 4th of Trade this afternoon, he planned to sail to-night for the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Stabbed with a three-inch blade kitchen knife, which pierced his heart, Frederick La Marr was almost instantly killed in a brawl with Mrs. Jean Bowers, in a rooming house on Johnson Street, about 5.30 o'clock yesterday evening.

Mrs. Bowers, taken into custody by police shortly after the affair, was this morning charged with murder in the city police court.

Thursday was set as the date for the commencement of the preliminary hearing with A. Maclean, K.C., appearing for the defendant. C. L. Harrison will conduct the case for the prosecution.

At 6.05 p.m. yesterday Dr. George Hall, who had been called to the Gordon Rooms to attend La Marr, reported to the police that the man was dead, apparently stabbed by an assailant with a short-bladed knife. Police immediately investigated.

Witnesses Held
Chief of Detectives Harry O'Leary stated this morning that Detectives John Rogers, William Stark and John Rogers, who were among the first to reach the Gordon Rooms, after the slaying, were held witnesses who will be heard during the court proceedings.

Before Coroner E. C. Hart at an inquest scheduled for to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The police information given out from headquarters this morning by Chief of Police John Fry, was brief but complete.

On Sunday, according to Chief Fry, both the accused, Mrs. Bowers and the dead man, La Marr, had been in the rooming house since the first of the month, although La Marr once caught hold of Mrs. Bowers when she attempted to call for help from an upstairs window.

Later they had heated words, and shortly after 5 o'clock Mrs. Bowers, Chief Fry declares, is alleged to have picked up a short-bladed paring knife and stabbed the man in his breast, staggered and fell.

Chief Fry said that full evidence would be given at the inquest to-morrow.

WOMAN IS CALM
It is a rare thing in this city for the clerk of the court to receive a woman in his house charged with murder.

Mrs. Bowers entered the dock this morning in charge of a police man. She was pale and wide-eyed. The clerk read the charge against her. Bowers held tight to the table edge in front of her.

H. A. Maclean, K.C., appearing in her behalf, asked for a brief adjournment to give him time to consider the case. Mr. Harrison had no objection, and Magistrate Jay remanded Mrs. Bowers until Thursday.

In the charge office she requested pencil and paper to write a note to her mother. This she obtained and watched by the police officers and with a matron at her elbow, the accused woman wrote to her parent.

Mrs. Bowers's husband is not in Victoria at present. La Marr was an unmarried man, according to police information.

WAS THREATENED
C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, said to-day that it was a matter for consideration whether or not Mrs. Bowers's fight, struck and killed the man in self-defence.

La Marr, he understood, had threatened to kill Mrs. Bowers when he laid hands on her just before his death.

"A revision of the Fisheries Agreement of 1885, which has never been ratified by the United States Senate, is expected to take up with the Department of State here."

"The other diplomatic issues Mr. Massey is expected to take up with the Department of State are: a revision of the four-power convention relating to sea seals in Bering Sea, which Japan has asked to have changed; the settlement of the Fraser River salmon dispute between British Columbia and the United States; and finally the Chicago Drainage Canal and the St. Lawrence Waterways."

Toronto, Nov. 15.—A special dispatch to The Toronto Star Weekly from Washington said in part:

"Hon. Vincent Massey, new Canadian Minister to the United States, who is to arrive here early in January, is expected among his first official acts to seek a revision of the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, which limits naval armaments on the Great Lakes."

"This is the most important of five major issues between the two countries which await Mr. Massey's diplomatic guidance."

Revision of the Rush-Bagot agreement is raised because the United States violated it during the World War in training naval reserves on armed vessels on the Great Lakes. Canada has also been asked to allow armed vessels built on the lakes to pass out through the St. Lawrence, and although she has acceded to this she believes either she should be granted similar privileges or that the practice should be absolutely prohibited in future.

HEALTH SUFFERS AS RESULT OF BIG STRIKE IN BRITAIN

Cardiff, Wales, Nov. 15.—The executive council of the South Wales Miners' Federation has agreed to the terms offered by the Government for settlement of the protracted coal tie-up throughout Great Britain.

The action of the South Wales miners had been awaited by the country with greater anxiety than that of any other section, because 250,000 miners are involved, among them being the bulk of the so-called "Red" section of the British Miners' Federation. The miners' delegate conference recommended Saturday that the miners accept the Government's peace proposals, involving longer hours for the men and establishing the principle of district settlements rather than national agreement.

While it may be a week or more before there is a general resumption of work, the recommendation of the delegates' conference, if carried out by the various federations, is looked upon as bringing a termination to the long period of industrial strife.

The strike began May 1 last. A. J. COOK IS UNWELL
London, Nov. 15.—A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, whose slogan during the strike has been "not a penny off the pay, not a minute on the day," which nothing now remains, is suffering physically from the strain of the industrial struggle which is now virtually at an end.

Herbert Smith and other leaders stood the physical strain of the long fight fairly well, but with more than 350,000 miners in the pits and the recommendation of the miners' delegates' conference, Cook has almost given up in despair. He has called for public arrangements upon his physician's orders.

For six months Cook has withstood the onslaughts of nearly all the newspapers in the country, whose editorials have painted him as a disciple of Lenin and obedient to orders from Moscow. Now the nervous strain is beginning to tell. He has suffered slight heart attacks and has been ordered to take a rest.

MARIE CANCELS HER SOUTHERN U.S. TOUR
On Request of Roumanian King, Queen to Leave Republic December 11

Chicago, Nov. 15.—King Ferdinand of Roumania has asked Queen Marie to return to Bucharest by Christmas, and she has cancelled most of her program in the southern part of the United States, in order to sail from New York December 11, instead of December 24.

Queen Marie spent to-day in Chicago. Her program was to sail for her to remain here until Wednesday.

HILL IN CHICAGO
Samuel Hill, railroad builder, who left Queen Marie's party in Seattle, is in Chicago to-day. It is not yet known what his plans are, but he has been expected to do so.

He said he had been invited to come here by Colonel Carroll, in charge of the queen's tour.

Mr. Hill did not go to the hotel where Queen Marie is staying, but went instead to the Chicago Club and did not take any part in the dinner and reception Saturday night.

NO DISAGREEMENT
"I had no disagreement with Queen Marie or her party," he told reporters. "Before I left the party I gave a dinner for her and it was a most enjoyable affair. I came here at the invitation of those in charge of her party."

Asked if he expected to call on Queen Marie, he said it was not customary to call on a queen, but that if invited to see her, he would most certainly pay his respects.

Earlier on Saturday Mr. Hill telegraphed to Colonel Carroll that he would be in Chicago, "awaiting Her Majesty's orders."

TOO MUCH PUBLICITY
Queen Marie, who has sought to prevent the public appearance of herself in the situation which resulted with Mr. Hill's dispute with Stanley Washburn, a special aide, was said to believe harmful publicity would be leveled at Mr. Hill if he should rejoin her train after having left in Seattle.

Robber Was Captured And Money Recovered

Reardon, Wash., Nov. 15.—Three masked robbers who were hidden in the Farmers' State Bank of this town held up three employees and a customer when they appeared this morning and escaped with $2,500 in cash and about $19,000 in Liberty Bonds.

A man, who refused to give his name, was captured by two members of a posse within three hours of the robbery and the money and $5,000 in bonds were recovered. The other two were traced to a muddy field and were believed to be surrounded by a sheriff's posse near the town.

The man arrested advanced with a white handkerchief for a flag when he was sighted, and later told where the loot could be found under a grain warehouse. He is a young man dressed as a laborer and was believed to be an amateur at robbery.

MUST PAY WAGE IF FINAL VERDICT OF COURTS IS LATE

Validity of Order May be Disputed Before Privy Council, Board Hears

Prepare to Enforce Forty-cent Minimum Pending Final Decision

Validity of the new forty-cent minimum wage ruling in the British Columbia lumber industry, may be tested out before the Supreme Court of Canada, and even the Imperial Council, lumbermen who are fighting the regulation indicated to-day.

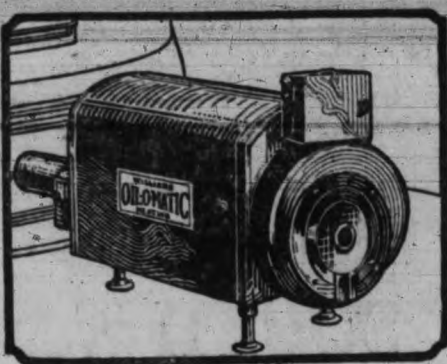

This information, which was conveyed to the board administering the new Provincial minimum wage law this morning, drew the intimation that the forty-cent ruling would be enforced anyway, pending a final decision by the courts.

MUST MEET SCALE
Unless the B.C. Appeal Court takes up the question on appeal this week, the board intends to insist on the payment of forty-cent wages in the lumber industry. The board will proceed to enforce its ruling through prosecutions if necessary.

PAYROLL SOON READY
It is not known whether lumber firms in preparing the present payroll are planning to pay the forty-cent minimum or not. Unless the Appeal Court should take immediate action and not the decision of the police and Supreme Court in favor of the ruling, the board will insist on the forty-cent scale being met in the current pay period. These wages are due to be paid to lumber workers about the end of this week.

The possibility of the wage dispute going beyond the B.C. Appeal Court has not been foreseen here. This action, however, is under consideration by the lumbermen, the administrative board has been informed.

CROSSED SEA OF MILIONS IN FAMOUS PILL BOX BATTLE

Col. W. W. Foster Tells of Canadians' Great Feat at Bellevue

How Canadian troops, just recovered from their great successes at Vimy Ridge, where called upon to drive back the Germans from their stronghold before Passchendaele and played an important part in the great campaign which virtually ended the fighting in Northern Flanders was graphically described by Col. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., A.D.C., at the Armistice dinner of the Fountains of Canada, No. 4 Company, at the Chamber of Commerce Saturday night.

BELEVUE PILL BOXES
With the aid of a map to show the positions of the opposing armies the colonel presented a vivid picture of the storming of the pill boxes at Bellevue and the Canadians' advance through a sea of mud and shell torn country to take an objective for which thousands of English and New Zealand soldiers had been sacrificed without success.

The battle was a relatively small part of the fighting in Northern Flanders, he said, but it was spectacular and important, for it was an effort to obtain possession of the high ground of Flanders, to force the Germans back to the coast line and to make them give up points of importance for their submarine operations.

Previous attacks in the Passchendaele area before the Canadians received their orders on October 28, 1917, had made the enemies position stronger, making it known to them every possible line of attack. The ground was in a terrible mess. Badly shelled roads made it an extremely difficult task to bring supplies to the forces in the line. Conditions made surprise attacks impossible and the attackers were forced to advance in the open over what was practically a marsh. Some efforts were made to throw duckboards over the mud for men to walk over, but they sank out of sight.

KEY TO PASSCHENDEALE

Bellevue spur was the objective, and it was almost to take it and protect it as a jumping off place to take the ridge. Bellevue spur was the key to Passchendaele. The Ninth Brigade was on the right and the Eighth on the left. The Eighth Brigade was ordered to attack the spur and take it. The Ninth Brigade had the 58th Battalion on the right side and 43rd Battalion on the left. Two companies of the 52nd Battalion, the speaker's battalion, was under command of the 58th Battalion—one was with the 43rd 5th instructions to support.

The zero hour for the Bellevue attack was 5.40 in the morning. The men jumped off to flounder through a morass of mud, and soon got a ribby cut up by artillery fire. At first it seemed impossible to make headway. At 8 o'clock it was reported that there were only thirty survivors of the 58th Battalion and forty-seven of the 52nd Battalion. Other men were found later, but the casualties were nearly as heavy as at first reported. They found the C.M.R.'s had moved up and the speaker was

ABLE TO SEND WORD TO A SUPPORTING COMPANY TO MOVE UP, GRENADES AND BAYONETS

Instead of making a frontal attack on the pill boxes the Canadians charged their front and dodged from shell hole to shell hole as they approached them. When they reached the first pill boxes grenades, smoke and bayonets did the rest. As the front pill boxes relied a great deal for support on those behind them they were soon taken.

The Germans "the wind up" and the Canadians found from the prisoners they took that the enemy did not know they were being attacked by so small a party.

During the advance the colonel related how a report reached the supporting troops of a gallant party shell hole. When they reached them at noon it was found there were thirty men, most of them badly wounded and without ammunition. The machine gunner wounded so badly that his leg had afterwards to be amputated, was keeping up the bluff. He had his machine gun showing over the top of the shell hole as though it were ready for action against any trying to drive them from the position.

By 12.30 on the day of the attack Bellevue spur had been taken, the Canadians had 200 prisoners, thirty machine guns and had taken battalion headquarters, where many valuable papers were found.

COUNTER ATTACK
At 2 o'clock the German staged the expected counter attack. They shell the pill boxes thinking the Canadians having taken them would be not, and they lost few men. Two German battalions attack, but ran into machine gun fire and left a lot of prisoners and retired. Other German attacks were unsuccessful.

With the capture of Bellevue Spur Passchendaele was under observation. It was afterwards taken at an enormous loss, the Canadian corps toll being 550 officers and 12,000 men. While only two square miles of territory was taken at terrific loss of energy, life and money, it represented vital part of a great campaign.

LECTURE-RECITAL ON PROGRAMME

Musical Club's Interesting Concert Wednesday Evening

Owing to the length of the programme the Musical Club recital to be given at the Empress Hotel on Wednesday, November 17, will begin promptly at 8.15 o'clock. The doors will be open at 7 o'clock, and club members are requested to be in the ballroom as early as possible after this hour. This recital is open to the public at a moderate fee, and the programme is an unusually interesting one. Charles Tree, English baritone, will give his celebrated lecture, "Laughter and Song," illustrated by a number of songs. This is the only lecture of its kind, and Mr. Tree has had the most flattering notices from the English press as well as Canadian. It is a lecture that provokes laughter and happiness, and everyone who is in the least interested in music—and more especially in singing—should hear it.

Mr. Donald Adams, a native son of Victoria, will play several piano groups. He is leaving shortly for the East, where he will spend some time in further study. Miss Emily Bently Dow, a pupil of Madame Engberg of Seattle, has appeared in recital in all the larger cities of Washington, and has received a great amount of praise for her technique and interpretations. Miss Dow will be accompanied at the piano by her brother, James Dow.

The committee would like again to impress upon intending patrons the necessity of being on time at this recital, as no one will be seated during the playing of a number. Tickets are had at Fletcher's and at the Kelly Piano Co., and at the Empress Hotel on the night of the recital.

The programme in detail follows: Piano—(a) Prelude, Chopin; Revue, No. 1; the Song of the Brook; No. 13; Homesickness, No. 6; Invitations, No. 22; (b) Polonaise militaire, Chopin; (c) etude, "Butterfly," Chopin.

Violin—(a) Praeludium and Allegro, Pugnani; (b) Havanaise Saint-Saens; (c) Folk song and dance, M. D. Engherg.

Piano—(a) "To a Waterlily," McDowell; (b) "Marche Mignonne," Poldini; (c) "Romance," Havelier; (d) "The Marionette Show," Goossens; (e) "Johannine," Rachmaninoff.

Violin—(a) Negro Spiritual, Dvorak-Kreisler; (b) Souvenir de Moscow (Russian air) Wienawski; (c) "Piano—(a) Hungarian dance, Brahms; (b) Dutch dance, Beethoven-Zeiss; (c) "Liebestraum," Liszt.

Violin—Londonderry air, Kreisler; (b) Rende des Lutens, Bezzini. Lecture-recital by Charles Tree, "Laughter and Song," illustrations, "When the Sun Shines," "The Song of the Flea," Mounsgorsky; "To Mary," M. V. White.

MRS. R. BARTHELMSS IS ASKING DIVORCE

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 15. — Confirmation of reports from Paris that Mary Ray, stage actress, has arrived there and a divorce is pending between her and Richard Barthelmess, film star, was given here today by the actor's secretary, George Squires.

Barthelmess and Miss Ray have been separated for more than a year. Mary Ray Barthelmess, their child, is here with a governess, Squires said.

Concert at T. B. Ward—The Victoria Women's Institute have arranged its usual monthly concert at the T. B. Ward of the Jubilee Hospital, on Tuesday evening. G. W. Plowright's orchestra will be in attendance and there will also be vocal and elocutionary numbers.

EMPIRE PREMIERS DRAFT RESOLUTIONS

End of Imperial Conference Is Expected to Come Next Week

Delegates Last Saturday Saw Demonstration by War Tanks

London, Nov. 15. (By Cable from George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press).—The main work of the Imperial Conference, it is expected, will be concluded next Saturday, although there may be a couple of plenary meetings next week for the formal adoption of resolutions. Committees are now engaged in the work of drafting the resolutions to be presented to the conference.

To-day the conference is to hold its first plenary meeting for more than a week, with the Empire Premier due to state their positions on the question of defence.

CANADA'S POSITION
Premier King's statement, it is expected, will be a review of the position of Canada's military, naval and air forces. It is thought the Prime Minister of Canada will not go any further than that, the extent of Canada's participation in Empire defence in his opinion being regarded as a matter primarily for the Government and Parliament at Ottawa to decide.

The conference committee of Premiers on inter-Empire relations is understood to be working on a draft resolution regarding the treaties of Locarno. This, it is expected, will be largely confined to an expression of appreciation on the part played by the treaties in creating a peace atmosphere in Europe.

TANKS WERE SEEN
On heather-clad hills of West Surrey the Dominion Premier's last Saturday saw a tank which created which was bewildering in its efficiency. There were one-man tanks which darted hither and thither like waltzers on skates; there were "honeycombed" tanks for two, which seemed to be everywhere at once, and there was the latest tank of all, the battleship of the land, which easily climbed over the obstacles of fallen trees, crashed through wire entanglements, and then, turning in its own length, jumped a trench and swept through a barbed wire wall as though it were nothing but paper.

It was a fascinating demonstration of new methods compared with old, albeit terrifying in its illustration of much that has been expected should the dogs of war ever break loose again.

MUDDY EXPERIENCE
The demonstration was carried out in a driving rain which plastered everything with mud. It opened with a couple of the tanks which created so much consternation when they first appeared on the western front in September in 1916. The leading tank waddled like a grandfather among so much that was new.

Tanks of all types and kinds followed in a bewildering succession. There was one type which can do thirty miles an hour on the road and can be converted from wheels to tracks in sixty seconds. Horse-drawn artillery units passed by in all their panoply, succeeded by the mechanical type with the same guns hauled by tanks over road and field with a mobility which no horse could possibly equal.

GUNS FIRED
The tanks went into action. From everywhere and nowhere apparently tanks appeared, their guns crashing and spluttering till the air vibrated and one wondered what would happen to the visitors' marquees if the men behind them were firing merely blanks. A couple of the tanks collided. A whippet dashed away with a damaged turret.

The mimic war ended. Then the tanks showed what they could do in climbing and passing obstacles. The dragons raced down the hillsides with the guns and swept straight up the other side of the valley. One tank, crossing a thicket, went straight through a tree. The tree toppled. Unchecked, the tank went straight on, and the thicket was cleared away for the troops.

12,000 AT SERVICE IN TERMINAL CITY

Veterans, Members of Present Forces and Public Honor Memory of War Dead
Vancouver, Nov. 15.—More than 2,500 sailors, airmen, soldiers, veterans and members of auxiliary organizations formally participated in the Vancouver garrison's armistice memorial service on the Cambie Street grounds yesterday afternoon, while the public attendance was fully 10,000.

Major the Rev. C. C. Owen conducted the solemn drumhead service and Captain the Rev. M. H. Jackson delivered the brief sermon.

Col. H. S. Tobin, as brigade commander, headed one of the greatest military parades ever witnessed in this city. The body marched down Cambie Street to Victory Square, and as each unit passed the Cenotaph the command "Eyes left," was given for the salute to the memorial of Canada's war dead.

REVIEWED BY LEADER
Through Hastings Street and up Granville to Dunsmuir the parade continued. At Pender Street Col. Tobin fell out and reviewed the march past. At Dunsmuir Street the parade dispersed, each unit going its own way.

Following Col. Tobin, brigade commander, and his staff, Lieut.-Col. A. L. Coote, brigade major, Major Sharpe, intelligence officer, and Lieut. Clark, orderly officer, followed in order the various naval and military units and other organizations participating.

Among the staff officers in attendance were Brig.-General J. A. Clark and Brig.-General R. P. Clark. Sergt.-Major Mortimer acted as brigade sergeant-major, Sergt.-Major J. Robinson as brigade quartermaster-sergeant, and Sergt.-Major Carr as brigade orderly-room sergeant.

The service, which was held in memory of those who gave their lives while serving in the Great War,

Murder of Girl Is Investigated

Seattle, Nov. 15.—The body of Letitia Whitehall, fourteen, who had been missing from her home at Kirkland, near here, two weeks, was found in the Sammamish Slough, ten miles from Kirkland, yesterday, and Ralph Jackson, seventeen, was held by the Seattle police for questioning. The police declared murder was indicated. They said the water in the slough was not of sufficient depth for a person to drown in. The girl's clothing was torn.

in a stolen automobile an hour before Miss Whitehall, daughter of George Whitehall, a Kirkland gasoline engineer, disappeared.

The father declared his daughter was of a quiet nature and not usually active.

Meanwhile, police started a search for two men said to have been loitering in front of a Kirkland dentist's office about the time the girl disappeared. She was last seen coming out of the dentist's office between 8 and 8:30 on the afternoon of October 30.

Authorities said the body probably had been carried to the bridge which crosses the slough and thrown over it. They asserted the height of a railing on the bridge would have prevented her being pushed over it. A coroner's autopsy last night found the girl had been brutally attacked, knocked unconscious by a blow on the head and thrown into the slough.

ARMIES OF CANTON MAKING GREAT GAINS

Hold All Strongholds South of Yangtze Except Shanghai and Nanking

Chiang, Their Leader, Says They Are Ridding China of Militarists

Shanghai, Nov. 15.—(New York Herald-Tribune Special Cable).—Every stronghold south of the Yangtze River, except Shanghai and Nanking, has fallen into the hands of the Cantonese, who are sweeping Southern China, building defences and establishing a unified government.

The Nationalist movement, which is espoused by Canton, is more widespread than at any former time since the founding of the republic. Chiang Kai-Shek, the young commander of the Cantonese forces, was welcomed by 10,000 citizens, carrying banners opposing the Peking Government, on his arrival at Kiating, which recently was surrendered by the Northern army. The city gaily bebecked itself as if for a holiday, in an effort to show the populace was sympathetic to the Cantonese.

HOPES FOR RECOGNITION

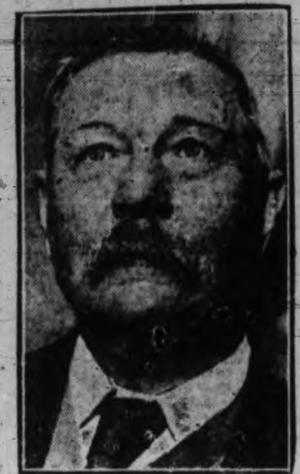

Chiang Kai-Shek addressed the public, saying the war against Peking was to rid China of militarists and establish a representative government. He promised to abolish foreign control of China's internal affairs and place the country in a dignified position among the nations. He expected the powers eventually to recognize Canton instead of Peking.

APPEALS TO CHANG

Defeated everywhere he has fought, Sun Chuan-fang, whose headquarters are at Nanking, has appealed to Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian warlord, to send reinforcements southward to stem the on-rushing Cantonese. It is possible garrisons in the province of Shanghai, which is controlled by Chang Tso-Lin, may be ordered south to assist Sun Chuan-fang. Unless Sun obtains soldiers and munitions from Mukden, it is believed Peking's control of the regions south of the Yangtze will be entirely at an end.

Sun Chung-fang, nominally commander of the five lower Yangtze provinces, now holds only the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu. The Chinese newspapers estimate 40,000 men have been killed in the Yangtze battles.

MADE AN ADDRESS AT SPIRITUALISTS' LONDON MEETING

SIR CONAN DOYLE

8,000 SPIRITUALISTS ATTENDED SERVICE

Big Annual Gathering in London Yesterday; Doyle and Others Spoke

London, Nov. 15.—An impressive belief in spiritualism was registered at the spiritualists' annual Armistice service at Albert Hall here yesterday. Sir Conan Doyle, leading the service, suddenly appealed to his hearers, shouting:

"I ask all who are sure they have been in touch with their dead to rise and testify."

More than 3,000 men and women of all types quietly rose and this brought from Sir Conan this fervent statement:

"Thank God there are so many. I prophesy that within five years in answer to such an appeal every man and woman will rise."

"We are not testifying to faith, but to fact."

8,000 ATTENDED

The growth of the belief in spirit communication, so persistently expounded by Sir Oliver Lodge and Sir Conan Doyle, has apparently been extraordinary. The occasion of the manifestation yesterday was the gathering of 8,000 spiritualists for the annual Armistice service.

In the course of his address Sir Conan Doyle said:

"We say here in mid-London and in cold blood and pledge our honor that this is true. We feel we are addressing those we have lost and hold out our hands to them, not as shadow beings in an unknown life, but just the same light-hearted, merry fellows we lost. They are not lost, but are nearer to us than ever they were before."

Miss Estelle Stead, formerly editor of The Review of Reviews, Rev. George Vale Owen and other well-known spiritualists were among the speakers.

THREE KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN MINE

Several Workers Entombed in Pit in West Virginia; Rescue Efforts Made

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Three miners were killed and two injured in an explosion early today in a mine of the Glendale Gas and Coal Company at Moundsville, near here. Four workmen in the mine at the time were unaccounted for several hours after the blast occurred.

The four missing workmen, and possibly a few others, were entombed by the explosion, it was said at the company's office. It was expected rescue workers would reach the section where they were trapped within a short time.

FOREST FIRE INQUIRY HELD IN NELSON

Nelson, Nov. 15.—Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, is in Nelson today to hear what probably will be the principal hearing of the forest fire and lumber industry inquiries. The Grand Forks hearing was confined to a night session. Before leaving Grand Forks the Minister discussed with the trustees of the Grand Forks Irrigation project the measure of success achieved and stated that in the case of all irrigation projects the Government would not make individual delinquencies a burden on the projects, but would take the delinquent land by reversion, the users who met their obligations being fully protected.

Twelve Soldiers Killed by Mexican Group of Bandits

Vera Cruz, Nov. 15.—A group of bandits descended upon the town of Banderilla, near Jalisco, today, and surprised and killed the garrison of twelve soldiers. The marauders also wounded several civilians, sacked business houses and vacated. A large force of troops was immediately dispatched to seek the perpetrators of the outrage.

Now They're Finding Rich Gold Ore in Alps

Rome, Nov. 15.—Now deposits of rich silver-bearing ore have been discovered near Glazeno, in the Cottian Alps, according to dispatches to the local newspapers.

The deposits will yield from thirty to thirty-eight grams of gold a ton, and from twenty-three to 230 of silver.

FORMER PALACE OF SULTANS IS NOW GAMBLING PLACE

Constantinople, Nov. 15.—A new tyrant-maker and breaker of fortunes, reigns in Yildiz Kiosk. The favorite palace of Abdul Hamid, arch tyrant of the Ottoman Empire, has been transformed into a gambling casino where those who were once trembling subjects of the Sultan are now making obeisance to the King of Chance.

Former palace officials, secretaries, slaves and others who passed years in the Kiosk without seeing more of the interior than their own appointed corners, are now trooping even into the rooms where the imperial harem was guarded from all eyes except those of the Sultan. The butcher, the baker and candlestick maker are clinking coins in the stately hall where Hamid and his one-time guest, the Kaiser of Germany, secretly gambled.

All classes of society and a score of nationalities are crowding into the tables of roulette and baccarat in this historic hall while in an adjoining salon Turkish women of the new unveiled dance the Charleston to the latest jazz tunes.

AUTO-TRAIN SMASH CAUSES FOUR DEATHS

Renfrew, Ont., Nov. 15.—Garfield Humphries, thirty-seven, a farmer, and two of his children were instantly killed, another child died a short time later, and a fourth was seriously injured in a level crossing accident in the village of Cobden, Ont., yesterday at noon.

Those killed were Garfield Humphries, thirty-seven; Edgar, eight; Nine, six and George, four. Mabel, seven, was injured.

Mr. Humphries and his four children were returning home after attending service at the Cobden Church. At the level crossing the automobile, driven by Mr. Humphries, was struck by a C.P.R. freight train traveling east.

How to start the day wrong

Sleep late

Linger over bathing, shaving and dressing.

Look at your watch, utter an exclamation of dismay, sprint downstairs.

Gulp a bite or two and leave the house hurriedly.

Since body and brain are thus denied proper nourishment—at a time when they need it most—the above method of starting the day wrong cannot be surpassed.

For the right kind of breakfast - - - this crisp, delicious food!

PRESENT-DAY breakfasts have a great deal to do with present-day nerves and present-day malnutrition. Dietitians warn us to beware of the hasty breakfast!

Once you think about it, you realize how reasonable it is. Nothing to eat all night—the body ready and waiting for food to supply all its varied needs—and we give it a skimpy, hurried breakfast, frequently deficient in some of the vital elements of nutrition. Then we start out to do the hardest, most nerve-racking work of the day, on this kind of meal! Probably you don't want a big breakfast. Your appetite may not be at its best in the morning. But if you choose a small breakfast wisely, it can give your body all it needs until lunchtime. You could find no more nourishing and delicious dish for breakfast than Grape-Nuts. This famous food is made from wheat and malted barley, prepared by special milling and baking processes. It has a delightful, nut-like flavor all its own. It is remarkably easy to digest. And a single serving—four teaspoonfuls—eaten with milk or cream, gives your body an abundance of varied and balanced nourishment. Grape-Nuts furnishes dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for heat and energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bones; protein for muscle and body-building; and the essential vitamin-B, a builder of the appetite. And Grape-Nuts is crisp! It encourages the thorough chewing which is necessary for perfect digestion and for the health of teeth and gums. Ask your dentist what he thinks of modern soft-food diet! He'll tell you that it is ruining the teeth of this generation—and he'll advise you to eat plenty of crisp food. Make the tempting, nutritious single serving of Grape-Nuts a daily breakfast habit. Grape-Nuts comes in wax-wrapped packages ready to eat. Very economical, for four teaspoonfuls, costing less than one cent, is sufficient for each serving. Your grocer has

Grape-Nuts—or you may wish to accept the following offer:

"A Book of Better Breakfasts"—and two servings of Grape-Nuts, free! Mail the coupon and we will send you two individual packages of Grape-Nuts free. We will send, also, "A Book of Better Breakfasts", which a former college physical director has prepared for us. You will find the delightful menu which this book contains a real help toward better health.

PREMIERS ENDURE BANQUETTING BETTER THAN POLICE GUARDS

London, Nov. 15.—Detectives can not eat as much rich food as diplomats, if the experiences of Scotland-Yard operatives assigned to guard the Dominion Prime Ministers at the Imperial Conference are any criterion. The detectives have been suffering from indigestion after attending banquets every night for three weeks.

Premier King and Premier Stanley M. Bruce of Australia have withstood the banquetting even better than any of the other Prime Ministers and have actually taken on weight. The detectives, on the other hand, have become pale and worried in appearance, though they are hanging on gamely at the call of duty.

When dining tables first came into use diners reclined on them and ate with their fingers.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

VANCOUVER NEED NOT BE ALARMED
because Mr. Sanford Evans, of Winnipeg, has told the Fort William Board of Trade that the natural wheat outlet for Western Canada is by way of the Great Lakes and only to a limited extent by way of the Pacific Coast.

There are many important reasons why there will be a steady increase in the volume of wheat moving to the markets of the world through the ports of this Province. One of the principal of those reasons is their freedom from ice and other physical handicaps all the year round. Another is the proximity of a large section of the wheat producing areas of the prairie provinces to this coast. Another is the determination of Western Canada to divert to Canadian ports much of the large volume of Canadian wheat which is now shipped through American Atlantic ports. Not only Vancouver, but Victoria and Prince Rupert as well, ultimately will be called upon to handle this increasing business. It is not necessary to point out that navigation on the Great Lakes, and to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence, is closed for a considerable part of the year. B.C. ports are open all the year round.

Nor should it be forgotten, when considering the grain business which in future will have to be handled by the ports of this Province, that there is likely to be a steady increase in the lands of the prairie provinces that are sown to wheat and other grains. The world at large is not taking seriously the doleful prophecies of a food shortage; but the Canadian producer is well aware of the fact that the Orient is cultivating a taste for the foodstuffs with which the West is familiar—a changing demand in which wheat is the most prominent commodity.

All the new production which will be undertaken for this reason alone—as well as a growing share of the production that comes from the present cultivated acreage—must pass through the ports of British Columbia. At that stage it will not be a question as to what percentage Vancouver shall get and what shall take the eastern route; it will more likely be a question of how to provide facilities at all our coast ports to expedite the distribution of the greater crop of that time. Vancouver already is in the business in a fairly large way. Prince Rupert also is operating its first elevator. Victoria will soon be in a position to bid for its share of the trade.

The distribution of grain must become an important industry for British Columbia ports. Every year will witness substantial growth; but it must not be forgotten—particularly as this Province develops industrially—that there will be a variety of commodities produced West of the Rocky Mountains in the near future the distribution of which also will insure a measure of port development yet undreamed of.

British Columbians who may be disturbed over the statement which Mr. Sanford Evans made at Fort William should glance at the map of Canada. They will see there convincing economic and geographical argument in favor of the western route. Ours is a case that can not be denied.

WHAT THE TREATY IS DOING

ALTHOUGH A NUMBER OF DETAILS are still to be disposed of, there seems every reason to believe that a huge pulp and paper industry is about to be established in the neighborhood of Prince George. Eastern interests apparently have been negotiating for some time with Hon. Mr. Pattullo and latest advices indicate satisfactory progress towards the desired end.

It is obvious, of course, that since the Canadian-Australian trade arrangement became a part of the business machinery which is running between this country and the important Antipodean Commonwealth, a big field has been opened up to the pulp and paper industry of this Province. Before the King Government negotiated that pact the import tax on Canadian newsprint entering Australia was something like fifteen dollars per ton—obviously a severe drawback to the development of business. Under the Treaty, however, this commodity goes into the Commonwealth free of duty.

It is understood that about $30,000,000 will be invested at Prince George. This figure is an imposing one in itself; but it means a great deal more than the building of a large plant and the export of so many tons of paper every year. It means a large new community of several thousands of people whose requirements will create a demand for the things manufactured and grown by other thousands of people.

The magnificent establishment operated by the Powell River Company shows what the pulp and paper industry is doing for British Columbia and what it will do in a still more imposing sense, as full advantage is taken of the world's market. The progress already made, incidentally, proves the value of the Treaty which began to operate twelve months ago.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN

EMPLOYMENT IN GREAT BRITAIN during September, although showing a further slight improvement on the whole, continued to be severely affected by the coal-mining stoppage. Idleness was most noted in the following industries: iron mining, steel, tinplate, heavy engineering, shipbuilding; cotton, lace, jute, linen, pottery and glass bottle. In the building trades and in agriculture the situation was satisfactory.

Among the 11,900,000 workers insured against unemployment under the Unemployment Insurance Acts in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, on September 20, 13.9 per cent. were unemployed, compared with 14.2 per cent at the end of August and 12 per cent at the same date in 1925. According to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, these percentages include only those coal miners who were not disqualified for benefit under the Acts by reason of the strike.

The percentage of unemployed was 13.6 at the end of September among the members of those trade unions from which returns are received by the British Ministry of Labor. This compares with 13.3 per cent. unemployed at the end of August and with 11.4 per cent. at the end of September, 1925. There were approximately 1,582,000 applicants for employment registered at the employment exchanges in Great Britain and Northern Ireland. Of this number 1,198,000 were men, 295,000 were women and the remainder, 89,000, were boys and girls; at the end of August this year the total number registered was 1,606,000 and at the end of September, 1925, it was 1,401,000.

THE "BOARD OF STRATEGY"

ONE OF THE SUGGESTIONS WHICH comes from Conservative circles in Ottawa is that the famous "Board of Strategy" is done for and will not be revived. It is pointed out that during the last session of the House it made many decisions that were only forced on the back-benchers after much grumbling and almost mutiny. In fact it was often alluded to as "More Board Than Strategy."

There is nothing surprising in the report that this extraordinary body has had its day. It never was anything but a square peg in a round hole. Not one of its members would feel like pointing with pride to any of its achievements. If there were two ways of doing a thing, it seemed to select the wrong one with unailing regularity. It wobbled all over the place. The ammunition with which it provided Mr. Meighen was wet and soggy. It gave him platforms for here and platforms for there, a "not-too-high" tariff in one place, a "not-too-low" tariff in another. It marked a map with "soft pedal" on the British Preference in British Columbia and a "favor-for-favor" argument in Ontario. And it must have cautioned him really severely about making any mention of his famous Hamilton speech wherein he laid down the course his party would take if the Empire once again should be confronted with "the spectre of 1914."

It would indeed be interesting to learn what Mr. Meighen thinks about the "Board of Strategy" now that he has had time to ponder over the result. And what does our own Dr. Tolmie think about it?

Queer Quirks of Nature

By ARTHUR N. PACK

It is believed that all pheasants came originally from southern Asia, where the great variety of climate and environment have developed an astonishing variety of beautiful and interesting species. Some are birds of the hot moist forests, some prefer open woods of the higher lands and a few inhabit the almost treeless slopes and canyons of the lofty Himalayas, where they may descend to the shelter of the forest when danger threatens.

Most of them have long tails, the central feathers of which present a degree of graceful slenderness which well sets off the bird's jaunty beauty. Others have rounded tails not unlike those of our grouse.

None is dull, and in a majority the variety of color is bewildering. Copper and bronze and gold and silver, in all combinations and degrees of iridescence, help to make the group one of the most notable, since they are rivaled, perhaps, only by the far-famed birds of paradise.

Long ago, when the depleted game covers of England suggested importation as a remedy, the pheasant was brought from the East. China pheasants are often called, but usually it is the blend of a number of breeds.

The success of Britain's experiment led America, when her incomparable game birds began to show the effect of overhunting, to turn to the pheasant. Great numbers were turned out in a blind endeavor, but in most instances the birds failed to establish themselves.

In a few sections, however, notably in the more humid parts of our northwest, and in southern British Columbia, the pheasant seems to have found a region suited to its needs.

Do You Mean What You Say?

The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines

We understand that a "dud" is something, or somebody, that is useless, or a failure. The word became very common during the great war, when it was applied first to shells which did not explode, and then to inefficient officers and mechanism. The origin is not known, for though the Dutch word, "dood," means dead, no connection between it and "dud" has been traced.

FIRST EUROPEAN IN CANADA

Q.—Who was the first European in Canada?

A.—The first European in Canada, to actually set foot on the soil of North America, was John Cabot, in the summer of 1497. He did not, however, remain long but returned to England where a monument on the heights near Bristol commemorates his voyage of discovery as a citizen of that place.

THE WOOLEN INDUSTRY

To the Editor:—A letter under the caption of "Woolen Industry" in Saturday's Times is very interesting, but probably the writer is unaware that during the past three years three English concerns engaged in the manufacture of fine cloth, have through my efforts expressed a desire to locate here; the first of these in 1923, after a visit to Victoria to investigate its possibilities as to manufacture of fine counts for export trade. In consideration of free water and taxation for five years they would erect and equip a plant representing a $250,000 investment, employing 1,100 hands, besides an additional 300 would be kept busy in such trades as machine, wood turning, tinmiths, tube-makers, headmakers and wicker-workers (Mr. Okell of the Red Cross shops would furnish all wicker-workers required) a monthly payroll of $94,000, and a 6,000 new population. These proposals were made public at the election meeting at Victoria West. The press failing to give publicity they fell to the ground. In 1924 at the request of one of our prominent citizens I again entered into negotiations with another firm in the same line of business employing 1,100 hands, who were disposed to discuss with the council by sending out one of their firm, if there was exhibited an honest desire for such an industry as theirs. I was prepared to put these proposals before the Chamber of Commerce meeting called in the interest of Mayor Pendergast, but I was prevented on the

Kirk's Wellington

"Does Last Longer"

This Triumph of Expert Tea Blending Now Reduced Price at Your Grocers

platform from speaking on any matters concerning industries, so again this proposal fell by the way. Last year one of our citizens made a public offer to give $1,000, if others would do the same, to encourage manufacturers to come here and so into business, by helping them in their water rates, taxes, etc. I was so impressed that here at least was one man willing to make a sacrifice, that I determined again to make another offer to arouse the people to their opportunities, and succeeded in having another manufacturer employing 1,500 people located here, on similar lines as the two previous proposals. These were placed before the only meeting held last year at the Centennial Church, but as they received scant consideration at the hands of the press, showing that owing to appalling apathy and indifference to industries that Victoria was lagging behind in prosperity. Had the first of my proposals been accepted by this time the plan would have been in full operation, 1,400 hands at work, 6,000 new people here, a city humming with industry, and encouragement of our tradesmen and business men. I am not the only one who has had such an experience.

The silk mill proposals of 1922 employing 284 hands met the same fate. Prominent business men from the mayors down have received from me full details concerning the proposals, but I have received very little encouragement to proceed any further in the matter. My success in securing three firms to consider coming here, (and at no cost whatever, except free water and taxation for five years) no bonuses, stock, or sites asked for, was through their being my boyhood friends, and who had confidence in me, again I knew the woolen industry. Anyone honestly interested in this question desiring fuller details, correspondence, etc., I shall be pleased to have them call on me to receive such.

W. F. FULLERTON.

[Editor's note—All Mr. Fullerton needed to do to gain publicity for his proposals was to submit them to the press, in either the news or correspondence columns.]

THE TAX SALE

To the Editor:—The following facts may be of interest to the public, showing as it does the state of perfection of our City Hall officials have attained.

On July 10 last I paid $24.35 balance of taxes due on a piece of property and also interest, 97 cents. This was all the taxes due on the piece of property and was for the year 1925.

On July 21 I received a notice from the city treasurer to pay $24.35 general taxes; also a threat to sell the property in question at the September tax sale if payment was not made. As I owed the city nothing on this account, it did not interest me, although it was accompanied by an invitation to return the notice before payment to have some interest added on. The property in question is valued at $1,750 by the city and their kind proposal was to sell this to get their $24.35. However, my interest was revived when in August they had the gross impudence to state to a firm in this city, representing the mortgagee, that the taxes were unpaid. The firm notified me and asked me to at once make payment and file the receipt with them.

As the city had all the money due to them, I wrote to the council on the subject complaining of the making of incorrect statements concerning my affairs to persons with whom I had business dealings. The council sent some weeks ago and I received no reply. A second letter calling attention to the omission received the same treatment. On making a personal visit to the Mayor he admitted the receipt of them and stated that he was waiting for a report from the city treasurer. This interview occurred on Monday, November 1, but so great is the distance between the city treasury and the Mayor's room, that I have not heard the result of the date of payment. I am making a personal report yet. Of course there is nothing to report unless they deny the authenticity of the receipt I hold, because if the receipt is correct all the subsequent action to get the money by the tax sale and writing those letters is wrong and there is nothing to say in justification. But it would be of public interest to know how the city treasury accounted for the presence of the $25.32 paid by me on July 10 and evidently not properly entered in the books.

If the City Council are interested in anything else but getting eight per cent surcharge and advancing the date of payment (a pretty device for cutting the year short and making tax payments come round quicker) they might be able to find time to settle the above very interesting matter with me without making it necessary to carry the matter to the courts for a settlement. Their present report of progress needs speeding up. Honor and common civility calls for a more speedy reply than my correspondence has received so far.

MANY RUMORS

Rumors of dark horses and a postponement of the leadership decision were rife in Vancouver to-day. The Vancouver Star printed the following on these reports:

Discussions on an informal nature which took place while the members of the executive of the B.C. Conservative Association were in Vancouver Saturday, may be more far-reaching than the announced decision of the gathering that new meetings for the election of delegates to the Kamloops convention should be held by the Saanich Association and the Oak Bay division of the Victoria Association.

PRESERVE HARMONY

Among the topics considered outside the committee room was the desirability of preserving harmony after the convention is over. Reports brought in from various parts of the province indicate such a sharp cleavage of opinions that fears of a split were expressed.

Several ideas were under discussion. It was intimated that notice of motion might be given that the convention refrain from choosing a leader, and that the decision be postponed until after the next election when the matter would presumably be left to the elected members.

Another suggestion under review was that more than a majority vote be required, and that a sixty per cent or even sixty-six per cent vote be required to give finality. The straight majority proposal was finally carried.

DARK HORSES

Supporters of both W. J. Bowser and Leon J. Ladner, the two candidates openly in the field, are both claiming decided majorities of the delegates already chosen, which indicates either that the candidates are running very close or that the views of many of the delegates are not known. If the race is as close as looks decision to require some percentage greater than fifty-one to elect a leader would probably eliminate both the present aspirants and open the door to a dark horse. It would also lead to the nomination of other candidates at the last minute and among those who are spoken of in this connection are R. L. Maitland, president of the B.C. Conservative Association and General A. D. McRae.

It is stated that a committee has, within the past few days, asked Mr. Maitland to stand by as a compromise candidate, but he is said to have given no answer other than his former announcement that he is not seeking the honor.

MORE BOARD

General McRae is said to be taking a most active interest in the preparations for the convention, but what coup may be in process of preparation from that quarter is not known. Many of his former supporters of the Provincial Party who are now restored to good standing in the Conservative Association are said to be desirous of having him enter the lists as a candidate.

"There has been also some discussion in New Westminster and elsewhere of Senator J. D. Taylor being nominated.

With new names coming into the discussion once more the field may be opened wide to a dozen or more nominations, in which event the final outcome is beyond prediction, especially if a three-fifths or two-thirds majority is required in the interests of harmony."

It was the first professional game of the locals, who last year competed in Central Hockey League, of the amateur status.

Quebec—Horace "Soldier" Jones, well-known Canadian heavy-weight boxer, arrived at Quebec with his 19-year-old bride yesterday, on the steamship Minnedosa, from England. Jones said he is going to work in the woods, on the farm where he was born at Capreol, during the next six months, to put himself in fighting trim. He will retire after a few more fights, he says.

EMPERESS OF CANADA HERE THIS MORNING

Liner Brought 312 Passengers; Had Fine Passage, Averaging 19.5 Knots

Completing a fine passage, during which she averaged 19.5 knots per hour, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, Capt. Samuel Robinson, arrived at the William Head quarantine station this morning at 5.30 o'clock, and tied up at Pier Two at 7.45 o'clock.

Capt. Robinson reported his vessel had experienced excellent weather during the 4,200-mile voyage.

Questioned regarding the first shipment of Japanese oranges for the Christmas trade, Capt. Robinson stated that the Empress of Russia, due to arrive at Victoria November 29, will bring all her hatches' worth of oranges.

The Canada brought a light list of passengers, there being 312 travelers aboard, including sixty-six first class, forty-two second class, eighteen third class and 156 in the steerage. A number of first class passengers departed here, while thirty-eight Chinese left the vessel at this port. The inbound liner had a total of 5,000 tons of cargo, including a large shipment of raw silk consigned to Eastern mills. Forty-eight tons of general Oriental freight were discharged here.

Victoria's mail amounted to fifty sacks, while for the United States the vessel carried 1,342 bags.

Among the prominent passengers on board were: N. Gottlieb, tea shipper of Shidzuoka, returning to his home in Chicago, accompanied by his wife; E. Coutts, Yokohama, prominent broker, proceeding to London on furlough; F. D. Charles, Yokohama, manager of the Yokohama Insurance Company on his way to London on a holiday; Alan Reid, with the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China on leave to Scotland; D. W. Keith, with the Yokohama branch of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company en route to England on his vacation; A. Elked, prominent exchange broker of Tokyo on his way to visit his old home at Zurich, Switzerland; A. B. McCallum, well-known solicitor of Montreal, returning home after an extended visit to the Orient; C. C. Julian, harbor commissioner of the city of Vancouver, returning home after a trip to the Orient in the interests of Vancouver.

On Wednesday the steamer Princess Victoria will be put back in service, and will be placed on the triangle route. The Victoria has been laid up for overhauling.

The Iyo Maru will dock here tomorrow morning. The vessel will be one day late in sailing from Vancouver for Prince Rupert. She will leave on Thursday night instead of Wednesday.

Word received this morning from the Nippon Yusen Kaisha steamship Iyo Maru, Capt. Fujimura, stated that the vessel will arrive at the William Head quarantine station tomorrow evening, at 7 o'clock, inbound from the Far East. The vessel will berth at Rithet's Outer Docks at 8.30 o'clock.

The Iyo is bringing fourteen passengers including two first and five third class for Victoria, and one first class and six steerage for Seattle.

Twenty tons of cargo will be discharged here.

The vessel's mail shipment for this port consists of seventy-five bags for local distribution and ten for the air mail.

YANGTSE PILOT SAYS GOODBYE TO TROUBLED WATERS

Capt. N. E. Kent, R.N.R., Senior Pilot on Famous River, Will Hunt Here

Orient Manager of Standard Oil Passenger on Empress of Canada

Capt. N. E. Kent, R.N.R., senior pilot on the Yangtze River for many decades, was a passenger on the R.M.S. Empress of Canada, departing at Victoria this morning. Capt. Kent is retiring from active service after a long and distinguished career in Asiatic waters.

To The Times to-day Capt. Kent stated that he proposed to spend a short time in Victoria before he made up any plans for the continuation of what is now a pleasure trip, and the first real holiday in many years.

Guns and golf clubs were the first articles in his luggage that he looked to this morning, promising himself some excellent sport in Vancouver Island game coverts and golf links before his holiday is many days older.

D. H. Cameron, Oriental manager for the Standard Oil Company, on a brief business trip to the Eastern States, also crossed on the Empress of Canada, being a frequent visitor at this port on his many trips across the Pacific in the course of his duties.

Others in the Canada's saloon lists included Mrs. L. Dunbar, wife of one of the most prominent importers of Occidental goods in the Far East.

H. Watanabe, special aide to members of the Royal House of Japan, now studying at Oxford University, is on personal mission on behalf of his royal patron, returning to England to take up his duties again.

On Wednesday the steamer Princess Victoria will be put back in service, and will be placed on the triangle route. The Victoria has been laid up for overhauling.

Shanghai Millers Alive to the Value of Canadian Hard Grains

Vancouver Harbor Board Official Tells of Interesting Trade Tour

"The mills in Shanghai have learned the value of hard Canadian wheat, and grain shipments next year from Canada to the Orient generally, will surpass all former totals by a wide margin."

In these terms did C. O. Julian, special representative of the Vancouver Harbor Board, sum up his experiences of the last nine months on a trade mission to Orient, and from which he returned to-day as a passenger on board the R.M.S. Empress of Canada.

"If I might sum up the experiences of the tour I would say that it convinced me that Canada has a wonderful opportunity to develop her trade with the Far East at this time; and it also convinced me of the widespread ignorance in the Far East of conditions and even the geography of this continent. I found many merchants who were anxious and willing to do business in Canadian wheat surprised to hear that Canada was a separate country, distinct from its neighbor to the south," continued Mr. Julian.

"On the other hand I found millers at Shanghai and generally throughout the land, and the quality of Canadian hard wheat and were making every effort to import larger quantities than ever. They mix it with the poorer grades of wheat that pass through their hands, to keep up the standard of the whole," continued Mr. Julian.

It was in January last that the Vancouver Harbor Board representative set out on what has been the first official trade mission to the Far East under those auspices. In the last nine months he has traveled a considerable distance around the rim of the Eastern world, visiting the Philippine Islands, Borneo, Java, Sumatra, Federated Malay States, China, Manchuria and Japan. Everywhere, he reports, he met with the greatest courtesy, and found willing listeners.

Early in his tour he came on the off-repeated impressions that Canada was part of the United States, while his Vancouver ears burned when receiving the intelligence that "Vancouver is a closed port for five months of the year, in winter." It took many similar missions to straighten out the erroneous impressions that have grown up chiefly on account of the lack of sufficient Canadian initiative to "sell" their own land, he believes.

Enough, however, in the last nine months to be convinced that the Pacific Coast has growing trade opportunities with the Orient, the more real as some effort is made to overcome the lack of general knowledge about this continent. The possibilities for the development of increasing Canadian exports to the Far East rests with the measures Canadians put forth in this direction will reap a rich harvest," concluded Mr. Julian, who is now on his way to Vancouver to report the success of his tour.

MISSING SIDNEY MAN FOUND HERE

A. Daniels Left Home at Sidney Saturday Night For Work; Found by Police

Having no knowledge as to how he arrived in the city, A. Daniels, missing from his home in Sidney since Saturday evening, was found to-day by the Provincial Police in the city. Mr. Daniels was unable to give any coherent account of his mode of travel into the city. He stated that he was looking for work. It is thought that he was suffering slightly from loss of memory and that, instead of proceeding to his new employment, he made his way here.

The thirty-third anniversary dance of the United Service Lodge, A.F. and A.M., will take place to-morrow night at the Alexandra ballroom. Ozard's orchestra will supply the music for dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Absolute decree of divorce was granted this morning to Leland Berrow, petitioner, from his wife Jennie Lind Berrow. The petitioner, who is a woodman at Cowichan Station, said his wife had left him and gone to Los Angeles.

O. J. Stone of the Christian Missionary Alliance is in the city and will be glad to meet all those interested in the work of the alliance this evening in the Reformed Episcopal Church schoolroom at 7:30 o'clock.

Annual general meeting and election of officers of Ward One Liberals will be held in the Liberal Rooms, corner of Government and Broughton Streets, this evening at 8 o'clock, when all who believe in Liberalism are requested to attend.

Alfred Johnson and Oscar Hagil, two vagrants found by police officers living in a disused box car in the E. & N. Railway yards, were called before Magistrate Jay in the city police court this morning, and were remanded for hearing until to-morrow.

Herbert Fryer, Seattle engineer, will address the Lumbermen's Educational Class in the Victoria High School to-night at 7:30 o'clock. His subject will be "Kiln-drying of Lumber." A. E. Beaulieu of Vancouver, grading inspector of the B.C. Lumber and Shingle Manufacturing Association, will also attend.

A Hindu named Singh, charged with doing damage to property, was called before Magistrate Jay in the city police court to-day. Singh was charged with cutting the tires of a motor truck belonging to the latter, was charged to-day by the Provincial Police in the city police court to-day. His case was dismissed. There was insufficient evidence against the accused. His Honor said, to warrant a conviction.

All who have assisted as canvassers for the cathedral fund in the city are asked to attend a special meeting in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock. The fund has now passed the $200,000 mark in its upward climb towards the objective of $300,000. Endeavors are being made to conclude the organized effort for this year on November 30.

Originating in Victoria an idea that has been long an established feature of cities in other countries, the A.B.C. Theatre Guide of Victoria made its appearance in the city to-day. The Guide is published by the Victoria Printing and Publishing Company, and contains a concise summary of the weekly attractions at local theatres. The Guide is also made to the scenic drives about Victoria and other much useful data to visitors is given.

The usual business meeting of Lodge Primrose No. 32 was held on Friday in the Harmony Hall, the worthy President, Mrs. Skinner, presiding. The new members were initiated into the order. The worthy President, Mrs. Hatcher, and several members of Lodge Princess Alexandra were present, also a member from the Vancouver lodge. Plans were made to hold the bazaar on Friday, November 26. Rev. Clem Davies will open it at 2:30 p.m. and a dance will be held in the evening, with Mrs. Joyce as convener.

Under the auspices of Ward Two Liberals an interesting debating contest will be staged to-morrow night in the Liberal Association rooms at Government and Broughton Streets, commencing at 8 o'clock. Capt. Carew Martin, H. W. Davey, Alan MacLean and N. W. Spinks, popular professional young men of the city, will give their views from the platform regarding this particular question, and the audience will be invited to judge the merits of the debate. The social committee has arranged an excellent musical programme.

The charter reception of the Loyal Order of the Knights of the Round Table, at which the table will be regally set for General Victor Odium, will take place this evening in the Empress Hotel, commencing at 7 o'clock. General Odium, after presenting the charter, will address the table. Rev. W. A. Guy will propose a toast to the International, and Mr. Ormond will propose a toast to the guests. A special ceremony of reception into knighthood will be held for the president.

A most successful recital was given on Saturday by the pupils of Mrs. M. Hodges, L.A.B., at her home on Ocean View Road, assisted by Miss Irene Rust, whose pianoforte solo was much appreciated. The pupils were received with much enthusiasm by the parents and friends gathered. With a few exceptions the entire programme was given from memory, many pupils displaying a good deal of talent. Piano solos, duets and trios were well rendered by the following pupils: Miss Irene Davis, Miss Viola Davis, Miss Margaret Woodward, Miss Annie Lorne, Miss Lydia Hume, Leonard Smith, Herbert Hipwood, Phyllis Smart, Mildred Latta, Dolina McKinnon, Catriona McKinnon, Nora Garcin, Pauline Woodward, Peggy Wharton, Doris Bennett, Agnes Brookman, Doris Gilbert, Edith Hipwood and Ruth Wharton. Little Nora Garcin added much to the pleasure of the evening by her clever recitations which were received with great applause. The evening concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

The action against the other defendants had been dismissed for lack of prosecution and the same course was followed in the case of Haynes and Shaw this morning.

FOX SHOW OPENS HERE TO-MORROW

Many Entries For Provincial Silver Fox Exhibit at the Armories

Premier John Oliver will open the Provincial Silver Fox Show at the Armories to-morrow. This is the first fox show held in Victoria, and indications are that it will be an outstanding success. Every fox farm on Vancouver Island will be represented by entries, it is announced. Several other ranches in the Province are expected to send exhibits. It is being held under the auspices of the Vancouver Island Fox Breeders' Association.

Winners from this show will be exhibited at the International Show to be held in Hastings Park later in the year. To date over fifty entries have been received. Among those exhibiting will be the following: Malheur, Cynara, Cynara Fox Ranch, Keating, Gilt Edge Fox Company, Victoria, and Rosedale Ranch.

Four trophies have been donated for competition. The Fox Breeders' Association of Vancouver Island have donated a cup for the best pair of foxes in the show. A cup for the best matched pair has been awarded by the Gilt Edge Fox Company. Rev. Montague Brown of Keating has donated a cup for the best adult female in the show, and F. W. Francis, Jeweler, one for the best adult male. The prizes will be presented on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. D. M. McDonald, superintendent of the show, was in Vancouver last week to confer with the officials of the B.C. Fox Breeders' Association. It is their intention to make both the coming police court and the international show to be held at Hastings Park worthy of the industry. Fox farming has made great strides in Western Canada during the last few years, says Mr. McDonald, and Vancouver Island ranches have been among the leaders in the industry. At the last Western Canada show in Vancouver, in 1925, Vancouver Island farmers took five out of the nine trophies offered.

OBITUARY

Chapman, B.A., rector of St. Paul's Garrison Church will officiate, after which the remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay Cemetery.

MATHESON LANG WRECKED WHILE FISHING HERE

Famous Actor and Party Lost For Some Time on Finlayson Arm Yesterday

Matheeson Lang will not forget his experience in Western Canada for some time to come, for it was only yesterday that an adventure befell him which might have shaken the nerve of the majority, but which only caused Mr. Lang to smile and joke about what was actually a skirmish with death.

It happened at Brentwood, where Mr. Lang, and a party, including Mr. Lang, his stage manager, and another lady of his cast, had motored to enjoy some fishing on the famous Finlayson Arm and to view the salmon rolling up Goldstream to spawn. While coasting slowly along the shore of the Arm, Mr. Lang's cabin cruiser, rented for the occasion, struck upon a sunken rock and ran so hard upon it that the party were unable to lift it off. In consequence, they had to admit that they were stranded.

Nowhere was there aid in sight, but about a mile farther down the arm there was a house, for they could see smoke rising. It was getting late, and they were due back at Brentwood Lodge, where they had obtained their boat, at 4 o'clock. Mr. Lang's stage manager, an ex-army man, volunteered to swim ashore and attach a light line to his person. He plunged into the Arm and swam ashore. He dragged a box, containing his clothing, dressing himself as he set out for aid. For some time he wandered. Those in the boat saw nothing of him until several hours afterwards.

Meanwhile darkness had come. Mr. Lang and the two ladies waited in the launch while the tide went down and they were in immediate danger of slipping off and capsizing. Luck at Brentwood Lodge, manager Sandall was becoming alarmed. An automobile had been waiting for Mr. Lang and his party for some time, when Capt. Babington, together with Norman Broadhurst, set out in a second launch to search for the missing ones.

A waving light far down in the darkness of Finlayson Arm attracted the attention of the searchers. This they found to be Mr. Lang and the two ladies. Nothing had been seen of the Major since he climbed out of the water some hours before and disappeared in search of help. Capt. Babington and Mr. Broadhurst, with the three others in their launch, continued the search, and eventually far down the Arm, where he had wandered through the darkness, quite lost in the thick underbrush, the fourth member of the party was found, sitting by the water's edge.

The party returned to Victoria immediately and caught the midnight boat to Vancouver, where the company is playing the rest of this week. Mr. Lang, however, declares he will go back to Brentwood when he comes here later in the week for a second time.

ROADHOUSE RAIDS LEAD TO TRAILS

Sixty-two Persons in Vancouver District Forfeit Bail; Number Face Hearings

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—The names of forty men and twenty-two women, charged with being inmates of the gaming room of the place known as The Narrows, were called to court this morning by Magistrate H. O. Alexander to-day. In addition to the arrests, more than $2,000 in bail was collected at The Narrows from those alleged to have been found in a room where it is charged gaming was being carried on. These paid cash deposits of $50 each. Others found in the raided places were required to give their names and addresses before being released.

REMANDS GRANTED

P. Sullivan joined ten other men in the provincial police cells at the courthouse this morning on a charge of being keeper of a gaming house, to wit, The Narrows in North Vancouver district. He was later formally charged before Magistrate Alexander, who made an order for $2,000 bail and granted a remand until Friday morning.

Carl Dittman also appeared in the police court to answer a charge of keeping a gaming house at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday on bail of $2,000. William Hayes, charged with selling liquor and with having unsealed liquor in possession at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday next on bail of $500.

Hurley Ford, charged with selling liquor at The Narrows, was likewise remanded until Friday on bail of $500. William Brown, on the same charge, was recorded the same treatment.

Charles Russell, charged with keeping a gaming house at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday on bail of $2,000. Joseph Benedict Hanafin, charged with obstructing a police officer at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday on bail of $500.

GAME CHARGES

Sam Balcom, Louis Coleman and Fred Jones, who had been removed to Oakalla Jail for allegedly operating a crap game, a roulette wheel and a blackjack game, residing at The Narrows, appeared before Magistrate Alexander to answer charges of being inmates of a gaming house, The Narrows. They were remanded until Friday on bail of $500.

J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., appeared for the prosecution. Robert Smith for the accused from The Narrows, and Gordon Wismer as counsel for those from The Narrows.

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—Frequenters of Greater Vancouver's roadhouses were thrown into consternation, early Sunday morning when provincial police, working under the direction of Superintendent J. H. McMullen, Victoria, and without knowledge of the local police, made simultaneous raids on the place known as the Narrows in North Vancouver District and the Kingsway Bungalow and "30-30" in South Vancouver.

Ten persons were taken to Oakalla prison and held there on the order of Attorney-General A. M. Manson without bail until 4 a.m. to-day, when they were formally charged and bail was set for their appearance before Magistrate H. O. Alexander to-day.

In addition to the arrests, more than $2,000 in bail was collected at The Narrows from those alleged to have been found in a room where it is charged gaming was being carried on. These paid cash deposits of $50 each. Others found in the raided places were required to give their names and addresses before being released.

LARGE CROWD THERE

It is estimated between 200 and 300 persons were in The Narrows when the police rushed the place and approximately twenty were in the Kingsway Bungalow when it was entered. A few were found in the Bungalow, but the "30-30" was found to have been abandoned as a roadhouse and was being used as a residence.

Sergeant Robert Owens of Victoria commanded a force of eighteen at The Narrows, where the raid was most spectacular on account of the number and prominence of the people present. The eighty-odd men and women in the gaming-room were kept separate from those on the dance floor for several hours, until a complete search and rollcall had been made.

TWO BARROOMS

Two complete barrooms were found at The Narrows, stated the police, was remanded until Friday next on bail of $500.

Hurley Ford, charged with selling liquor at The Narrows, was likewise remanded until Friday on bail of $500. William Brown, on the same charge, was recorded the same treatment.

Charles Russell, charged with keeping a gaming house at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday on bail of $2,000. Joseph Benedict Hanafin, charged with obstructing a police officer at The Narrows, was remanded until Friday on bail of $500.

EARTH SHOCKS WERE FELT IN ALASKA

Cordova, Alaska, Nov. 15.—An earthquake of unusual violence was felt here at 10 o'clock last night, Pacific coast time.

The tremor was accompanied by a distinct rumbling. Buildings shook and the antennae of the United States naval radio station, fourteen miles from Cordova, swayed a foot.

As is usual in Alaska, where felt here at 10 o'clock last night, no damage was reported from the quake.

Indications that the earth disturbance was widespread were given when the naval radio station at Kodiak, 335 miles southwest of here on Kodiak Island, reported a severe shock had been felt there at the same time.

An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded on the seismograph at the Gonzales Heights Observatory here last evening. The first wave was timed at 8 hours 35 minutes 30 seconds and the record lasted for an hour.

SHOCKS IN CHILE

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 15.—Four years ago—November 10, 1922—a terrific earthquake brought ruin along the coast of Chile in the vicinity of Coquimbo, Serena and Valparaiso, with the deaths of more than 500 persons. Last Saturday the region was again shaken by an earthquake, and while its effects were not so disastrous, the trembling was severe enough to cause panic among the inhabitants. So far as known, there were no casualties and only a little damage was done.

FASHIONABLE CHURCH USED BY RICH FOR SOCIAL CLIMBING

Frauds of Ultra-smart Society
Are Attacked by Mrs.
Philip Lydig

Clergyman Makes His Sermons Inoffensive to Congregation of Millionaires

New York, Nov. 15.—The fashionable church is the target at which Mrs. Philip Lydig shoots in an article on "Frauds of Smart Society," that she has written for the current December Red Book Magazine. The social use to which the smart church is put is thus defined by her in a pertinent anecdote:

"An ambitious, self-made and flamboyant millionaire from the west wished to join the congregation of one of the most fashionable churches on Fifth Avenue, obviously for social reasons. He and his wife were welcomed sweetly by the rector. They professed and were confirmed and entered into the communion of the sacraments and rented a conspicuous new and gave liberally to the support of the work of the church out of a fortune that is notably large even for Manhattan. After they had been attending services and contributing generously for several months, the wife went to the rector to tell him how she and her husband had enjoyed his sermons and been uplifted by their faith. 'But,' she complained, 'although we've been members of your congregation since last Autumn, we haven't yet met any of your other parishioners.'"

"The pastor was most apologetic. 'Why didn't you speak of it before?' he said. 'What an oversight! I'm entirely to blame. Forgive me, dear lady. Will you come to tea in the rectory next—say, Thursday afternoon? And I'll invite them all to meet you.'"

"She accepted with pleasure. The invitations were sent out. She and her husband drove to the rectory on the appointed afternoon, saw the line of motor cars parked along the curb, entered smilingly, and were introduced withunction by the rector to a collection of social climbers, who had evidently joined the church for the same reason as they. There was not among them a single person whom any of them wished to meet."

"Checkmate! The rector and his wife were hospitality incarnate. The tea went off suavely. Nobody made a wry face over the cup, and the most fashionable conversation of the Fifth Avenue green was social exclusiveness unimpaird."

"The point is that such a church is a fashionable club, and very little else. The congregation does not primarily go there to pray; the religion is of secondary importance. The pew is merely a seat of envy in which the fashionable rich may feel complacent and superior."

"I remember the consternation, in one of these churches," Mrs. Lydig continues, "when a visiting clergyman delivered a radical sermon during the illness of the rector."

"It will ruin our church," one of the old ladies predicted. "If this sort of thing continues, the rector has been had enough. I think he has been very indiscreet in many things he says, and what has happened? Fifteen years ago, when the eleven o'clock service, there were twice as many carriages waiting in the street as there are now. Twice as many! If people are so excited and criticized by the pulpit, they go where they're more welcome. We used to be the most fashionable church on the Avenue, and we're not any more. We're dropping behind. We're losing our leadership in the diocese. Do you remember how often we used to meet the rector socially? He has invited half as often now. He has alienated a lot of our richest and most influential men, and sermons like this last one will drive the rest away. It's suicidal!"

"She was one of a committee of women, appointed by the rector, whose business it was to watch for any socially desirable stranger who might happen in on the services and welcome the newcomer, and try to hold her, if she were a woman, by putting her on the visiting lists of the ladies of the congregation. It was exactly like being put up at a club. And not only that: These women, if they recognized a conspicuous stranger in the church, hastened to notify the rector, and he tried, in his sermon, to make some flattering reference to the visitor, as if by accident. I remember my own astonishment—coming to such a church to hear a famous 'cellist, who had been advertised to play during the services—when the rector spoke admiringly of some charitable activity of mine that had been noticed in the newspapers. I could hardly believe my ears. I was the more astounded to learn, months later, that the rector was of accident. One of his committee had seen me enter, and warned him that I was present, and arranged with what to say."

"In such an atmosphere, of course, the most devout young clergyman soon becomes worldly-wise. He learns to make his sermons inoffensive. He preaches a Christianity that says as little as possible about humility and poverty and the other Christian qualities that are not fashionable. He condemns only the sins of the criminals and the lower classes. He thunders against heresies and unorthodoxies none of his parishioners are guilty of."

"The Reverend Dr. Carlington—let me call him—was the most fashionable of New York preachers a few years ago—a richly cultivated and genial type of sophisticated clergyman, who could drink and ride and play billiards and take a hand in a card game as companionably as any clubman in his congregation. His church was practically supported by one powerful millionaire, who dominated the vestry and controlled the board of trustees. In this man's court of favorites Carlington was the king's confessor. It was his business to assure the forgiveness of God for everything his patron did. And he did not limit his pardon to a form of words; he gave daily support of his practice and example. He accompanied his patron on his yacht with his mistress, and set a pattern of conduct, in his own affairs with women, that was easy for his patron to live up to. All this was well concluded next page

Transmission Of Power Marconi's Dream Of Future

Notwithstanding the fact that the idea has been generally discounted, it now appears to be Marconi's opinion against the field that some day broadcasting waves may be used for the transmission of power through the air without the use of wires or cables. Suggested by the development of his beam transmission between Montreal and London, Marconi, who came about as near as anybody to inventing radio, now seems to believe that radio power may be sufficiently magnified to drive distant factories.

Queen Marie Will Promote Radio in Her Dominion Now

New York, Nov. 15.—Queen Marie will return to Roumania convinced that the development of broadcasting within her country is a vital factor in its progress, declares Joseph D. R. Freed, an Eastern radio expert. "Freed reports indicate that Queen Marie is very much interested in radio," stated Mr. Freed. "It is probable that she will not only have a significance to America until her arrival here. Other visitors have been startled by the way broadcasting has touched the public imagination and how radio has become a veritable necessity in our lives. Its value as an educator is apparent. Radio will mean much to Roumania, and it will enable Roumania's voice to be heard throughout the European continent. For that reason I am venturing the prediction that when Queen Marie returns she will promote the development of radio within her dominion."

Man in Hawaii Receives Chicago Radio Broadcast

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The champion consistent "long distance radio fan" has been found. He is A. Hebard Case, whose home is Lihue, Kauai, Hawaii. In proof of the title the following letter has been received from Mr. Case by WBBM, the Stewart-Warner Air Theatre of Chicago. "Thought you might be interested in knowing that I have most consistently listened to your Sunday night 'Nutty Club' programmes for the past four or five months. Practically every Sunday I have heard your station and on the other hand I had have I failed to listen as a regular fan. Enjoy the fun and programmes very much. I can prove by my log that I have tuned in many times. — A. Hebard Case, Lihue, Kauai, Hawaii."

Twelve Million Radio Sets All Over the World

It is estimated that between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 radio sets are in operation throughout the world, according to a survey recently made. Of these, the United States is believed to have nearly half, or more than 5,000,000 sets. About 900 broadcasting stations are now operating, nearly 500 being in the United States. The actual number of stations which may be operating is, of course, considerably less, owing to the number of divided time agreements in force; this practice, however, is not common in foreign countries, as the stations are fewer and the distances between them greater. The wave bands used abroad are also much wider.

FASHIONABLE CHURCH USED BY RICH FOR SOCIAL CLIMBING

known to his congregation, and it was a scandal to many, but nothing was done about it till Carlington made the mistake of stealing one of patron's women. He was then quietly retired, in disgrace, to live on the income which he had saved from his days of labor. "Carlington was typical, in my experience. He was more open and less hypocritical than most of his kind, but he merely filled for his patron the same office that the fashionable clergyman commonly fills for his whole congregation. He confers a religious respectability on them in return for their support. He flatters and defends them in his sermons. He attacks the enemies of the social system of which they are the flower. If one of the ruling families in his church is threatened with the whisper of a scandal, he visits conspicuously on their yacht. Best of all, he is usually considered guilty of the sins that are most fashionable among the members of his flock. "He comes to his pulpit looking rather blowy and red-eyed, Sunday morning. The men tell him, 'He had a bad night last night at So-and-o's.' The papers report the death of a bishop, suddenly, of heart disease, at his study desk. He died in Lilly B's bedroom. He used to go to see her every morning. They took him, dead, to the hospital and reported his death from there. Mrs. C— has killed herself. There's a story for you. She married old C— for money when she was nineteen. Five years ago she was so miserable that she went to the rector and told him her story. He has been consoling her ever since. She found out about Mrs. D— and Mrs. E— and Mrs. F— a few weeks ago, and that finished her. She's the fourth of his own women, to my knowledge, that he's read the burial service over." It will be recalled that Mrs. Lydig herself was one of the guests at the Reverend Percy Stickle's Grant, one of New York's most fashionable clergymen. The marriage, however, was forbidden by Bishop Manning of New York, on the grounds of Mrs. Lydig's divorce, and the engagement was broken.

BEAUTY CONTEST WINNER PLAYS ENGAGING ROLE IN BRITISH FILM AT DOMINION

"Every Mother's Son" Has Notable Cast With Jean Fay, Famed Beauty, in the Lead

"Every Mother's Son," the latest picture made in England, showing at the Dominion Theatre this week, is conspicuous for several reasons. The acting is far above the average.

Jean Fay, a noted English beauty; Leal Douglas, who is the very embodiment of charm and distinction; Gladys Hamer, who makes a distinct hit with her comedy bits, are all worth watching. They stand at the top of their profession in the Old Land. Jean Fay is the heroine of "Every Mother's Son," and she has an opportunity to run the gamut of emotions in this heart stirring tale of love and sacrifice. Miss Fay was the second choice in the £1,000 beauty contest arranged in England a few years ago by Norma Talmadge.

Leal Douglas is an ideal choice for Lady Browning; she has poise, distinction and an aristocratic bearing. Miss Douglas plays the English gentlewoman who is gracious and lovable to a degree with her companion and servants; she shows her genuine nobility by the grace with which she accepts war conditions and her son's soldier pals, dancing and cavorting in her drawing room; in her sorrow she is reserved and touching, but never does she lose sight of the human angle. Her clothes, her manners and her entire performance are far above the average, even in so-called star costs.

Mr. Alfred Browning is a capable actor, handsome and well dressed; Frederick Cooper, M.C., is a charming and agreeable leading man, fascinating even when he does not appear in the most favorable light. Rex Davis, who, like Mr. Cooper, is a Military Cross man, is well known to movie fans on both sides of the Atlantic.

The roles of Nobby, the tramp, Bully and Tricky are admirably done by Moore Marriott, Alf Goddard and Johnny Butt. They form a comedy trio that it would be hard to surpass anywhere. There is the genuine humor of the British Tommy; they mingle tears with bullets, and their readiness to laugh at a trifle is equal to their impulse to fight to the last ditch.

Haddon Mason is a fresh, attractive looking Englishman with a nice

"In Walked Jimmy" At Coliseum, Comedy Based on Optimism

Has Been a Favorite Wherever It Has Been Produced

"In Walked Jimmy" is just one of those examples of good comedy in which Ed. Redmond's company delights. It is called by its author (Minnie Z. Jaffe) a comedy of optimism, and it is just that "Jimmy" who walks in, has a religion of his own; not an ordinary religion, perhaps, but just a religion of living and laughing and being happy. Which is good for Jimmy, because he was suspected of having robbed a bank. But two people believe in him. One, an old man who is just about to quit business and give up the struggle with a run of bad luck, and the other is a little stenographer. "Jimmy" puts every thing right and incidentally falls in love with the little typist.

There is a big cast, with a bunch of girls who come into the play. George Olson has the part of "Jimmy," a difficult study giving plenty of scope for his usual sympathetic and dignified handling, and Gertrude Burton (after her success of last week) has another charming part as the little stenographer who believes in "Jimmy."

SPRITED COMEDY

It is a spirited comedy, somewhat unusual in treatment. Optimism, good cheer and hearty laughter dominate the four acts.

"In Walked Jimmy" has been a favorite wherever produced and will be found to contain all the entertainment qualities of the high class plays which have been produced recently at the Government Street Theatre.

Clean wholesome comedy with just a touch of human nature, just a dash of excitement and more than a little bit of philosophy make "In Walked Jimmy" one of the most delightful of plays.

Good auditions between acts remains a feature of the bill. Bargain night is Monday with early family night on Tuesday.

Hincks Presents "Good Night Nurse" At the Playhouse

"Through the Back Door," Pickford United Artists'
Production On Screen

Reginald Hincks offers "Good Night Nurse," a musical comedy, at the Playhouse. It relates the adventures and troubles of Theodore Marbury (Harold Bechler) and his newly wedded wife (Eleanor Duncalf). His friend the Sultan had sent him a wedding present and what a present it was!! (Eva Payne and Reginald Hincks). His friend Jimmy (Charles Courrier) and Benson, the butler (Reg. Hincks) tried to fix things for him to prevent his wife and her aunt (Agnes Burton) from seeing the present. But all to no avail. Polly, the housemaid (Vivian Combe) also gets mixed up in the plot, and Benson eventually saves the day. There is some excellent music in the production.

Connoisseurs of antiques will be interested to know that several very rare pieces of period furniture will be shown in "Through the Back Door." Mary Pickford's United Artists' production, showing at the Playhouse.

A French Empire bed, valued at $1,250, is used in one set, and also a French clock set, appraised at $750. Among the Oriental rugs in the boudoir is a French grey Persian worth $2,000. In the reception-room of the Long Island home can be seen a harp that cost $2,500. The furnishings used in dressing the sets were gathered by Thomas Little, head of the Brunton property department, and are said to be the most exquisite and valuable ever shown on the screen. The total value set upon all properties is $150,000.

'Phantom of the Opera' Is Columbia Production With Scenes in Paris

From the Novel by Gaston Leroux, Film Story Is Powerful Vehicle

Theatre goes and music lovers generally will find "The Phantom of the Opera," coming to the Columbia Theatre to-day, of unusual interest, inasmuch as the story is laid in and around the famous Opera House, and includes among its many big scenes a production of Gounod's "Faust" in exactly the style this opera was presented in 1880.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is produced from the famous novel by Gaston Leroux, and deals with a mysterious figure who inhabits the deep cellars below the opera house, and from there, posing as a ghost, controls its destinies. The heroine of the story is a young opera singer, and with her the Phantom falls in love.

The production of "Faust," which is one of the scenes in the production, was preceded by four months of research in the archives and libraries of Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Bayreuth. Five architects, four costume designers and their staffs visited the opera houses of all these musical centres, securing data, making sketches of settings and costumes, in order that all the opera scenes might be absolutely accurate.

For the making of the picture a replica of the Paris Opera House was built at the Universal studios. The exterior of the opera, approximately two city blocks in width, the grand staircase, with its six levels, rising to a height of a hundred feet, the foyer, which is the promenade of the fashionables between the acts, the salon de danse, the stage, the great auditorium with its five tiers of boxes and balconies—all of these are reproduced exactly in the settings, in full size.

The Paris Opera House is the largest and one of the most beautiful of the world's theatres. It was started in the time of Louis Napoleon, and in the revolution which overthrew him it was used as military headquarters. The cellars were turned into prisons. With the establishment of the present government the opera house was again devoted to grand opera, and has been world famous ever since for its spectacular productions.

A symphony orchestra of one hundred pieces, under the leadership of William Tyroler, formerly a conductor at the Metropolitan, and now in charge of the Hollywood Symphony orchestra, supplies the music for the opera scenes. A chorus of eighty supports a cast of principals, headed by Alexander Benoni.

MATHESON LANG TO BE SEEN IN "THE CHINESE BUNGALOW" THIS WEEK

Canadian Actor to Present One of His Most Fascinating Plays in Repertoire at Royal Commencing Thursday Next

One of the most important events of the theatre here for some years will be the return of Matheson Lang, the famous Canadian actor, who will be seen at the Royal Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, in "The Chinese Bungalow." Of all the many plays in his repertoire this is one of the most fascinating and significant. Its theme, of course, of the age-old incompatibility—"East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet"—without a clash at all events. Yuan Sing, a wealthy Chinese gentleman, married an English girl in Singapore, and falls in love, also in the Oriental way with her sister; the wife, ostracised by the white community, allows herself to seek consolation with a young Englishman just out to the rubber plantations.

The Chinaman discovers and the Englishman dies. With a subtle cruelty the Chinaman revenges himself also on the wife, and "putting her away"—there lies much emotion behind this Biblical phrase—seeks to force the sister into a marriage, which she naturally regards as bigamy. A brother of the Englishman is brought in as knight errant and the denouement is a wonderful duel of a thrilling character between East and West—on truly Oriental lines.

The play is elevated well above melodrama by the artistic contrast between the Chinaman, exquisitely polite, impassable as a porcelain mandarin, yet breathing strength in all his reserve and cruel as a tiger, with the nerve-racked and eventually almost hysterical Westerners. The subtle manner in which from the rise of the curtain to the moment before its fall the sense of weirdness and mystery and apprehension is induced and maintained makes it a fine piece of stage craft and Yuan Sing a character to live in the memory.

Magnificently mounted and staged with Oriental opulence, the drama yet holds first and closest attention by reason of the gripping nature of the story and the inimitable setting of Matheson Lang.

RURAL FROLIC BY THE CAPITOL MERRYMAKERS

The programme arranged by the merry-makers for this week at the Capitol Theatre is known as the Rural Frolic. A very attractive programme of rural songs and dances will predominate. Special scenic and lighting effects have been arranged, nothing being spared to make this one of the most attractive programmes yet presented by the merry-makers.

RADIO BROADCASTS ARE NOT INTERFERED WITH BY AMATEURS

Amateur interference with broadcast programmes, a common occurrence three years ago, is practically non-existent to-day, a recent investigation shows. The use of short waves by the amateurs and the great improvement in broadcast receivers are given as the reasons for this condition.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside application. Get a package of HEM-ROID from MacFarlane Drug Co. to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you. (Adv.)

HUDSON'S BAY STAFF WILL STAGE GALA

Fine Comedy and Race Programme at Crystal Garden Tuesday

A fine programme of comedy aquatic events, to be followed by a dance, will be offered by the Hudson's Bay employees' Association at the Crystal Garden, on Tuesday evening. Advance information promises an evening of splendid entertainment, and although the whole programme is in the hands of the Hudson's Bay employees' Association, the general public will be admitted. Tickets are now on sale at the ticket office of the Crystal Garden. Tuesday has hitherto been reserved as popular night at the Crystal Garden, but because of the above event the popular night this week at the Garden will be Wednesday, when the usual dancing privilege will be provided at the reduced charge prevailing for this one night of the week.

PHILLPOTTS PLAY GREAT SUCCESS, BUT HE DOES NOT ATTEND

Torquay, England, Nov. 15.—Eden Phillpotts, author of "The Farmer's Wife," which has passed its 1,200th performance in London, has never seen the play, and does not intend to, his reasons being entirely sentimental. Mr. Phillpotts sends the members of the cast wines and other gifts whenever another "hundredth night" is reached.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

BUSTER KEATON PRIZE FIGHTER IN ROLICKING FILM STORY AT CAPITOL

Reputation Adopted to Win Maiden of His Choice Proves Unwelcome Possession When Asked to Fight

If you were a peaceable individual who never did anything more brutal than lick a postage stamp; and you fell in love with the daughter of a sturdy woodsman who frowned on your matrimonial ambitions because you were, in his eyes, a weakling; and, in order to win the girl, you posed as a prize-fighter and convinced your future father-in-law that you were a man-killer; and you wed the apple of your eye, and everything seemed easy; then you discovered that your deception had developed into a Frankenstein, and people accepted you as a great fighter, although they never had seen you fight; and you got deeper and deeper in the web, culminating in the trick of fate that matched you with the world's champion middleweight.

What would you do?
That's the situation Buster Keaton finds himself in at the Capitol Theatre, where he is starring in "Battling Butler," his latest and funniest picture. The comedian has the role of a rich and lazy youth who gets knocked by Kid Cupid while traveling through the great open spaces along the paved highways. After committing matrimony, the idle son of an over-indulgent father masquerades as a ring celebrity in order to please his bride. Complications pile up thick and fast; how he saves his peace and his bride from a wedding party, provides a most sensational climax. As usual, Keaton keeps audiences convulsed from the first scenes in the picture to the finish. "Battling Butler" is noticeably free from the usual comedy tricks; the plot is logical and holds the spectators' interest all through the picture. Adapted from a successful stage play, the new Keaton comedy shows the months of effort said to have been spent in making the production. Thousands of people appear in the prize fight scenes.

The capable supporting cast includes Sally O'Neill, Snitz Edwards, Tom Wilson, Francis McDonald, Walter James, Mary O'Brien, Eddie Borden and Buddy Pine. The direction, by Keaton himself, and the photography, by Dev Jennings and Bert Haines, are excellent.

SINCERE TRIBUTE TO WAR'S DEAD AT FOURANDEX DINNER

Striking Tableaux and Original Features Mark
Armistice Function

Striking tableaux staged to conjure vivid recollections for those who fought on the battlefields, solemn, impressive tributes to those who died, and a variety of other features, which featured the lighter side of army life combined to make the armistice dinner of No. 6 Company of the Fourandex of Canada at the Chamber of Commerce Saturday night an appropriate observance by men who played their part in the great conflict.

SINCERE

Outstanding in the evening's proceedings was the sincerity with which the veterans paid honor to the glorious dead. With the hall in complete darkness except for the light thrown upon a replica of the cenotaph and a grave in France a tribute to those who fell was read while the 200 ex-service men stood at respectful attention. Then the two minutes silent toast was given.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce, representatives of the Royal Canadian Navy and the permanent force of Canada, Hon. Walter C. Nichol and members of the Forty-and-eight of Washington were among the guests. The auditorium was suitably decorated with flags of all the allies.

The proceedings opened with the assembly, the sergeant-major's parade providing both a suitable military atmosphere and a great deal of clever humor. The rum issue followed with no secret made of the fact that genuine army rum, as the veterans had received on far differ-

Drudge of the Studios Has Screen Test, and Becomes Clara Bow's Rival

Alice White

Hollywood, Nov. 10.—Clara Bow, red-headed queen of screen flappers, has a rival.
The rival flapper will soon be seen flapping for First National, with whom she recently signed a contract. From some angles Alice White looks every bit like Clara's twin. She has even dyed her blond hair red—not quite as flaming as Clara's but still similar enough to photograph very much the same.

COG IN STUDIO MACHINE

Alice spent three years as a script girl and no one paid much attention to her beauty. She just seemed to belong there. She was just an important cog in the gigantic machine that grinds out thousands of feet of film daily. Perhaps, too, her horn-rimmed spectacles had something to do with concealing her pretty features and flashing eyes.

One day she had a screen test just for fun.
"Marvelous. A find," declared those who saw it.
"Do you mean it?" asked Alice.
They did mean it so Alice discarded her notebook and acquired a manager. Then she sat back and let him go after a contract, armed with her screen test. Three producers offered her contracts, but the First National bid was highest so she signed with them.

TESTS, TESTS, TESTS!

"And all I've been doing ever since is making more tests," Alice complains. "They haven't even an idea for me in the way of a picture. It's just tests, tests, tests—blond wigs, brunette wigs, straight hair and long hair. Oh, I'm so tired of it all I could scream every time they mention another test."

Alice White is another example of the Hollywood high girls who have made good. She came to Hollywood to live following the death of her mother, known on the vaudeville stage as "Marion White."

John McCormick, general manager of First National's west studios, is considering her now for the feminine lead in Dick Barthelmess's next picture.

ent occasions, was served out. The mess-parade-to-the-dining-room followed. "The King" was played as the Lieutenant-Governor, who had previously inspected "the troops," entered. "O Canada" was then sung.

An excellent repast included appetizing venison steak, made possible through a donation of three fine bucks by Major George Nicholson.

"THE MARSEILLAISE"

The opening musical number which interspersed the speech-making, was in the nature of a toast to the great ally of the war—France.

Appropriately dressed, Mrs. A. H. C. Jones sang the "Marseillaise," following a brief reference to France's part in the great struggle. The cordial encore showed the appreciation of the number.

"The Fourandex of Canada" was proposed by Fourandex Latta. "The Navy" by Fourandex Langley and responded to by Commander Nelles, R.C.N., "The Army" by Fourandex

Robinson and "The Air Force" by Fourandex Straith responded to by Fourandex Van der Byl.

After an effective tableau of a scene on the battlefield at Passchendaele, Col. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., A.D.C., gave the commemorative address, "Passchendaele."

A tableau, "O'Kelly," depicting the incident for which O'Kelly was awarded the Victoria Cross, followed.

"Our lecture guest" was toasted by the Commanding Officer, Fourandex G. O. Aitken.

"The visitors" were toasted by Fourandex J. B. Clearhue and responded to by Forty-and-eight J. Donnelly, Assistant District Attorney of Washington, Capt. Henry Wise, Colonel Heap and Major Ristine.

THE LOVING CUP

During the evening the Loving Cup was passed round the tables and for the benefit of the company the ceremony was explained in the following words: The Loving Cup, a feature of the dinners of this company, is passed round the table at the fitting time upon orders of the Commanding Officer. Each person, after he has drunk, applies his napkin to the mouth of the cup before he passes it to his neighbor. There must always be three persons standing, namely, he who passes the cup, he who drinks and his neighbor on his left who guards him. At Saturday's banquet Sergeant Fred Abraham, in full fighting equipment, including trench helmet, made an extra guard.

Letters were read during the evening from General A. W. Currie, Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., and Colonel Ross Napier.

After the toasts the Parliennes, consisting of Fourandex Ingledew, Maynard, Currie, Sibbald and Bridge, provided an appreciated and well-varied entertainment.

No Report Made By Grand Jury

New Westminster, Nov. 15.—British Columbia Government economies resulted in a new kind of strike being staged by the grand jury at the Assizes here.

For many years past, when the court work neared completion, it was customary for the grand jurors to make a trip to various government institutions, give them a thorough inspection and file a report containing recommendations and sometimes criticisms. In other years the Government paid transportation expenses of the jury on such trips. This year the jurors were informed no transportation expense money was forthcoming. Accordingly the jurors brought in a "true bill" against the Attorney-General's Department, stating tersely: "No expenses—no report."

"Anyway," said the foreman, J. J.
Cambridge, "grand jury reports invariably find their way into a pigeonhole and are never acted upon, so nobody will lose very much."

Cincinnati policemen are to carry cameras so they may photograph evidences of crime.

NO COMPENSATION FOR PROHIBITION MAN

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—The fact that a man's stomach goes on strike and his head spins from the imbibing of the sort of stuff that passes for whisky in Contra Costa County, while he is pursuing his duties as a private detective does not entitle him to compensation under the laws of California.

Robert Halberston, a San Francisco private detective, was the unsuccessful petitioner. He said he worked as a prohibition agent for the district attorney of Contra Costa County, and as such was forced to drink so much of the post-prohibition Contra Costa output that his stomach took on a select assortment of aches and pains and he contracted a nervous disorder.

From the Livers of the Lowly Codfish, Weak, Frail, Thin People Gain Needed Weight and Strength

McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets will increase your weight 5 pounds in 30 days or money returned from any druggist.

Medical science progresses rapidly and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver extract in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who need to take the health, strength and weight producing elements that come from codfish livers, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver extract in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug-store and get a box of these flesh producing, health

THREE AUSTRALIAN AND ONE JAPANESE STATION IS RECORD

Three Australian and one Japanese station is the long distance radio reception record of Roy Perkins, youthful radio fan living at 214 Howe Street. He accomplished this feat last Tuesday morning, between the hours of 5.30 and 5.35 o'clock. The Australian stations he received were located in Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane. JOAC, the broadcaster at Tokyo was the Japanese station.

To prove that his reception was not some freak of the set or of nature Roy listened in again early Thursday morning. By setting his dials at the same places he was able to bring the two stations in again.

creating tablets just as easy as a box of talcum powder. Thin, run-down, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh, are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and if the gain is not 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor. Another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets. At Vancouver Drug Company, MacFarlane Drug Company, Owl Drug Company or any druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for sixty tablets—and don't forget that they are wonder-workers for feeble old folks.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and beware of imitations. (Adv.)

The Challenge to Religion of Peace Sunday

Sermon preached November 7 by Rev. J. Buchanan Tonkin at the First Unitarian Church.

One of the fiercest lites in literature was that hurled by Obadiah at the sister nation of Edom. "In the day that thou stoolest aloof. The memories which flock upon us on Armistice Day bring home to us the supreme crime of those who to-day stand aloof on the issue of Peace. Multitudes do stand aloof when compensation under the laws of California. It has had failures. It needs amendment. It is based on the imposed lie contained in the Versailles Treaty. Yet I hold it has great value as the concrete embodiment of an ideal, however imperfect. Its faults lie in the blindness of men. They can be remedied only by men putting them right. It is for religionists above all people, to avoid the charge of treachery to humanity, by not standing aloof from active support of the League. The supreme value of the League, with all its weaknesses, lies in its power to focus the longings of millions for peace. With nothing to hitch on to these longings may recede, leaving the nations a prey to the fears and jealousies permeating international relations to-day.

The sense of national security is the greatest need to-day. Without it, the hideous competition in armaments will break out again, international trade is fettered, all schemes for social reform will be balked. The League carries us a step nearer the substitution of reason and law for force. The difference between human life and jungle life lies precisely in man's capacity for an ordered co-operative social life. The job before mankind to-day is to extend this to international life.

Unless Armistice Day recalls us to the resolution to dedicate ourselves anew to the Christian Cause of Peace, it is mere sentimentalism. The second sphere of activity is to resolve to face all the facts involved in the Cause of Peace. The war at least showed us that emotional idols apart from hard thought are worse than useless.

The profound indifference of races are facts which we cannot ignore. Some see in these only the prospect of a great conflict between white and colored races, and would urge the West to arm to the teeth in preparation against an invasion from the East. But these racial divergences exist beside a profound unity. Reason and conscience are common to all humanity. It is a notable historical fact that down to the time of the French revolution, there has been little self-conscious feeling anywhere. An intelligent use of the common heritage of reason and conscience can overcome the danger of a racial war. We must face the fact of human unity. Modern civilization tends to de-humanize men, to submerge the life of the individual in the herd. We think of men in blocks, in groups, in classes. The sense of the value of each human being gets lost in that kind of thinking. It leads to that stand-offishness, that false sense of superiority, that egotism and pride, which lie at the roots of war. We must resolve to face the fact of human equality and value.

A narrow patriotism is lying low at present. But experience shows that it can spring up like a poison at the slightest provocation. The international sense lies only skin deep in most men. Men must be taught, as Nurse Cavell said at her death, "Patriotism is not enough." In this respect a great responsibility rests upon the press, lest it yield to the temptation to inflame passions, echo the mob, follow fallacious and ignorant opinion, instead of creating an informed and intelligent public opinion. We must face the fact that a narrow patriotism cannot be supreme.

The greatest fact of all is popular indifference to national and international affairs. In some that is due to the conditions of poverty and care. Others are swamped in the round of pleasure and vain pursuit of happiness. Others have their minds preoccupied with the fear of comfortable circumstances, the call to service and sacrifice going by unheeded. They ignore God.

The future welfare of mankind depends on the result of the race between the champions of fellowship and education, and those of force. The dragon of violence may take many forms. It may be national egotism. It may be class war. It may be financiers concerned only with commercial success, not with the human workers on whom profits depend. It may be whiffed-livered politicians, lacking faith in human nature and hope of real progress, who connive at the kind of war preparation which, far from assuring peace, precipitates war. The whole situation makes a challenge to the Church, greater than any perhaps in its history.

Other may urge the cause of Peace from political, economic, or industrial points of view. But idealism and Christianity exists to proclaim the brotherhood of man as a fact which transforms the situation. From the point of view that these are real facts, every nation is bound to recognize and value. They show that every nation is destined to be a contributor to the commonwealth of humanity. That every nation there is a member of a great brotherhood. Through these principles of Christianity we reach a true estimate of man as man. We penetrate beneath the color, the type, the race to which a man belongs. We see a human brother, with a value and a dignity of his own. The religious view does not obliterate differences in men and nations. Nothing can do that. But by its means we are able to transcend these differences. We rise to a point above them. We see men and nations as human race, not as they exist, but as in the great Divine Purpose they can and will be.

The responsibility of the Christian Church, and all churches, to achieve the change of mentality in the people at large, which alone can secure peace, is terrific. There are scores of projects for the welfare of the kind demanding attention, but all will fall to pieces if the fundamental need for peace and fellowship is not met.

The test of all governments lies in their attitude to this prime need of the nations for peace and security. But upon religion, and the Church, lies the heaviest responsibility of all. If the Church is a league of men and women who believe in the reality of God, who are prepared to risk something to side with His righteousness, who have the welfare of the human race at heart, they must be prepared to strain every nerve and make every needed sacrifice in this enterprise of all enterprises. God forbid that the terrific fife, "In the day that thou stoolest aloof" should be true of anyone calling himself an idealist or a Christian.

Brentwood

Brentwood, Nov. 15.—The regular monthly meeting of the West Saanich W.I. was held on Tuesday in the Institute Hall. Mrs. T. Haddon occupied the chair. The secretary reported that the benefit concert, the catering for the Board of Trade banquet and the Children's Halloween party had all been successfully carried through. From the catering $50 had been realized and added to the building fund. The balance remaining from the Halloween party had been donated to the West Saanich school for sport supplies. A request was received from Mrs. McLaughlin, Superintendent of Institutions re the serving of luncheons and teas at the potato fair, several members will attend and donations of home cooking will be sent. The proceeds will be given to the Solarium. A unanimous vote was passed that the financing of the Provincial and District Conferences be taken over by the government. The letter of thanks was received from Mr. S. Hunt, also from the Saanich Board of Trade. Arrangements were made for the catering of the Saanich Police ball on November 19. A special meeting will be called to complete plans for the sale of work on December 3. The thanks of the Institute are given to Mr. and Mrs. H. Creed who kindly donated prizes for the last card party. Tea was served by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. A. Guy and Mrs. C. Atkins, after a social half hour the meeting adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Miss Maxine Elliott have returned to Vancouver after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sluggert.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler and son, Bruce of Seattle, are the week-end guests of Mrs. Wheeler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Atkins, Marchant Road.

The Guild of St. Mary's and St. Stephen's will meet on Wednesday, 17th, at the home of Mrs. A. E. Hole, Clarke Avenue, Brentwood Bay.

The Mount Newton Social Club will hold its regular card party on Wednesday night.

An enjoyable masquerade dance was held on Friday night under the auspices of the West Saanich W.I. Neary's Orchestra was in attendance and played a excellent programme of popular numbers for the dancing. The prize winners were: Best dressed lady, Russian Princess, Mrs. Bowman; best dressed gentleman, Mr. H. A. Burrey and E. Harding. Supper was served from a table with dainty decorations of pink streamers and pink and white chrysanthemums, the ladies in charge being Mrs. Haddon, Mrs. Freeland, Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Marks and son spent the week-end at their cottage on Clarke Avenue.

The West Road Hall on Friday night was the scene of two excellent basketball games. The first match was between the newly formed girls team of the West Saanich Athletic Association, who although playing their first match against the superior and more experienced team of girls from the Victoria High School under the management of Miss Elizabeth Smith, made a very good showing, the score being 28 to 10 in favor of the High school. Players for the High School were, T. Rennie, L. Newman, B. McArthur, J. Edwards and J. Christopher and for West Saanich, E. Anderson, M. Peden, T. Clarke, M. Anderson and F. Hamilton. In the second game between the Victoria First Presbyterian, Victoria, and the locals, the visitors won by the close score of 60 to 57. Those playing for the "Grays" were: Harris, Knott, Tisdall, Hocking, Turcott, Tillick, Nesbitt, Webster and Le Marquard, while Rice, Peden, Lennon, Tuhman and Sluggert lined up for the locals. The game was a popular numbers and encore was played by H. Estlin's Orchestra for the dance which followed the games. Refreshments were served later in the evening by the committee in charge. Next Friday the team from the navy are listed to play the locals in the West Road Hall. Also a ladies' team to be announced later.

HELPING THE SICK AND AGED THROUGH THE WINTER

Nothing helps the aged and ailing through the Winter like proper foods. The properly fed cannot well be sick. Fifteen years ago Dr. Robert G. Jackson was a sick, old man, although only 52. To-day at 67 he is a marvel of youthful vigor, preparing for years of accomplishment and never sick; not even a cold since 1912. The cause is natural foods—living largely upon nuts, fruits, vegetables, Roman Meal, milk.

The chief cause of sickness is acid accumulation in the blood through "excess acid" foods. Dr. Jackson's foods, mentioned above, prevent acid accumulation.

Dr. Jackson is dietetic editor, "Archives of Therapeutics," New York, a physician's journal, advisor to "Defensive Diet League," a physical association. Send for his free leaflet, "How to Keep Well," to Robert G. Jackson, M.D., 347 Vine Ave. Toronto (9), Ont. (Adv.)

NO REGRET FELT BY ALBERTA PREMIER

Premier Brownlee Issues Statement on Cancellation of Freight Tariffs

Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta has no apologies to make for the action of his Government in cancelling the one-line freight tariffs between the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway and the Canadian Pacific and the introduction of a similar pact with the National lines. This was his answer when told the transportation committee of the Board of Trade is sending a protest to the Board of Railway Commissioners against what they term the "discriminatory" action of the Government against Calgary. "The freight tariff situation is clear enough," he declared. "For the past six years the C.P.R. has enjoyed a one-line freight rate with the E. D. and B. C. and the C. N. R. have been discriminated against. If the trade board wants to use that term. Now, we have abrogated the C. P. R. pact and formed a similar agreement with the C. N. R. after fair consideration of both cases. If the transportation committee of the board of trade wants to protest the matter, let them go ahead. I have no apologies to make for the Government's action."

Hon. V. W. Smith, Minister of Railways in the Brownlee Government who was ex-officio member of the board of directors under C. P. R. management, expressed surprise at Calgary's protest. "Calgary did not mention the apparent discrimination against the C. N. R. during the six years the city enjoyed increased grain shipments, while the C. P. controlled the E. D. and B. C.," he said. "The board of trade will not be hindered in protesting the new C. N. R. agreement. We will do nothing."

NEW SOVIET-TURK AGREEMENT IS MADE

Tchitcherin and Tewfik Discuss Measures to Increase Friendly Relations

Odessa, Ukraine, Nov. 15.—Georges Tchitcherin and Tewfik Ruzhdi Bey, Foreign Ministers of Soviet Russia and Turkey, who had been meeting here to discuss questions of mutual interest to their countries, issued a joint communique yesterday in explanation of the conference, which stated that the two governments, in the direction of the policies of the two states or disturb the relations between them; that it was highly desirable to render these relations more intimate and cordial, and that consolidation of these relations would be of the highest importance to world peace.

An earlier dispatch from Constantinople said: Conjectures "multiply" as official parties of Tewfik Ruzhdi Bey for Odessa and his interview with the Soviet Foreign Minister, M. Tchitcherin, but the conviction is general that the incident marks the beginning of an important new development in Turkey's foreign policy. Conservatives view the conference as a step cementing Russo-Turkish friendship, which has been somewhat ruffled during the past years over failure to conclude a commercial treaty.

Australia May Also Start Wheat Pool

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—Wheat growers in Australia are keenly interested in the co-operative marketing movement as it has been developed in Canada, according to H. W. Wood of Calgary, president of the United Farmers of Alberta who arrived here Saturday after spending the last three months in the Orient and Australia. He left immediately for Calgary.

Following a meeting held at St. Paul last Spring, delegates to the proposed international wheat pool, representatives were appointed to visit several of the leading wheat-growing countries and explain the principles of co-operative marketing and how they have worked out in Canada.

Mr. Wood was delegated to present the situation to the agriculturists in New Zealand and Australia. While away he also spent a short time in Japan, ascertaining marketing conditions there.

Mr. Wood is satisfied that the information he was able to give his brother farmers in the South will be instrumental in bringing about much keener interest in pool marketing there and some more definite action may be expected, he says, when the delegates from the various wheat-growing areas meet in conference.

TWICE-A-DAY

—THIS, ADVISE DENTISTS, TO CLEAR THE TEETH OF FILM

What the Film on Teeth, to Which Many Tooth and Gum Disorders are Ascribed, Actually Is

By running your tongue across your teeth, you will feel a film; a slippery sort of coating. Ordinary brushing does not remove it.

Film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. That is why, according to leading dental opinion, teeth look dingy and "off color."

Film clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It invites and breeds the germs of decay. And that is why it is judged so dangerous to the teeth by authorities.

Film is the basis of tartar, and tartar with germs, is the chief cause of pyorrhea. That is why regular film removal is urged as probably first in correct gum protection.

Most dental authorities urgently advise thorough film removal at least twice each day. That is, every morning and every night.

For that purpose, obtain Pepsodent, the special film-removing dentifrice which leading dental authorities favor. Different from any other tooth paste.

Pepsodent cures the film; then removes it; then polishes the teeth in gentle safety to enamel. It combats the acids of decay and scientifically firms the gums. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And meets, thus, in all ways, the exactments of modern dental science.

On dental advice, people are adopting this new way of tooth-cleansing. Obtain Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, at drug stores. Two months' supply at a moderate price—or send coupon for 10-day tube. Use twice every day. See your dentist twice each year. Make both a habit.

THE GOLD ESCORT GUARDING A SHIPMENT FROM THE CARIBOO

THE large quantities of gold being sent out of the Cariboo by trail, naturally, needed to be guarded. Thus it came about that the government organized the Gold Escort, a body of armed, mounted men whose duty it was to protect the treasure from predatory-minded persons. It is remarkable how few "hold-ups" there were, considering the time and mixed populations. Stern justice, as administered by that fearless jurist, Judge Begbie, was, without doubt, the factor that held the lawless at bay.

By excessive carelessness and constant vigilance throughout the whole, too, is safeguarded, so that you may be assured the high quality and delicious flavor of 4X Products will be consistently maintained.

A SERIAL STORY

"The Unwilling Adventuress"

By MILDRED BARBOUR

The woman looked doubtful. She went away to consult her husband. But after a while, she returned to say that there was a piano in a closed salon in the main section of the house. She guessed it would be all right for Doris to go there. Her husband would build a fire.

The closed salon was damp and musty with age and disuse. The piano was sadly out of tune, and the fire which the caretaker lighted, smoked in the unused chimney so that a window had to be opened. But Doris declared herself quite satisfied and became absorbed in her music, though she distinctly heard the old servant turn the key in the lock when he closed the door behind him.

After due attention to her neglected voice exercises, she rose from the piano and strolled around the room, examining the faded tapestries, the dim old brocades on the furniture, the cabinet containing objects d'art, several handsome old paintings on the wall. At the open window, she paused and looked out.

A brilliant idea struck her. If she wanted to make an escape, an excellent means was offered her. The salon was on the second story of the chateau, and the outer walls were constructed of roughly hewn stone. There was also a frieze-like border of stone ornaments running between the first and second story. These, together with the rough blocks, which jutted out unevenly here and there, formed rude steps.

To make it even simpler, an ancient ivy had climbed the facade of the chateau and its main trunk, which skirted the salon window, was tough and thick as a human arm. Doris considered it a ladder of fate. With it for guidance and those rude stones for steps, she felt that she could make an easy descent.

But when? She couldn't climb down in broad daylight. At night she would be locked again in her own room, and even if she could manage somehow to escape from it, she wouldn't dare risk that climb from the salon window in darkness.

She returned to the piano and began to play idly. She wasn't quite sure she wanted to go to all that bother of escape, even to thwart Hartley. She was tremendously comfortable as she was. Paris with its perplexities was far away.

Through the open window, Doris heard crisp footsteps on the gravelled drive, and later the voice of the caretaker's wife, addressing someone.

A strange voice answered—a man's voice—a clipped, precise, authoritative voice.

Doris's curiosity drew her to the window. At first she couldn't see the speaker; they were hidden by the overhanging porte cochere. Nor could she catch the whole conversation. But a word here and there indicated that some passing motorist had lost his way and stopped for directions.

Doris heard the caretaker's wife giving him instructions. Then she caught a word which suggested that the stranger made inquiries about the chateau, perhaps asked if it were for sale, since it seemed unoccupied.

The old French woman answered that it was for sale. Yes, it was unoccupied; only her husband and herself lived here. Yes, she had the keys to the house, but M'sieur could not go through it. She was sorry, but those were her orders.

Doris chuckled. "He'll think she's crazy, whoever he is. Fancy having a house for sale and not being permitted to show it."

But just then the stranger stepped out from under the porte cochere and Doris stopped laughing, uttered a little gasp, and drew back hastily from the window.

It was the elderly man of military bearing—the man Count Romeo said was in the secret service of a foreign government—the man who had her under surveillance.

"Doris's Lamb!"

CHAPTER LIX

"Well!" thought Doris as, from a safe point of vantage behind the ancient window draperies, she watched the secret service man making his way down the gravelled drive under the hemlocks. "I'll have to

"CASCARETS" FOR HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

To-night! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women, who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you, keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children. (Adv.)

make an escape whether I want to or not."

She listened until she heard the purr of a motor starting somewhere in the drive. Then she returned to the piano, playing listlessly while her thoughts raced.

If she remained in the chateau, she would surely be caught. The secret service man had traced her there. Probably he was not yet sure that she was actually in the chateau. But it behoved her to be gone when he returned. With one gesture—if such a thing were possible—she would elude both him and Hartley.

She could no longer afford to shilly-shally, secretly enjoying her enforced leisure and peace.

When the caretaker's wife returned, Doris said casually:

"Did we have a visitor? I thought I heard voices."

"A gentleman who stopped to ask his way," the woman nodded, adding: "I'm sorry, Mademoiselle, but I'll have to ask you to return to your own room now."

Doris pouted.

"Oh, but I'm not finished by practice. Can't I stay longer?"

Again the woman said: "I'm sorry, but it's orders. You see, I have to go on an errand when I've given you your tea."

"But your husband will be here, won't he?" Doris asked quickly.

The woman hesitated a moment, glanced quickly at Doris.

The brief hesitation, the wavering glance, recalled to Doris that, after the caretaker had lighted the fire in the salon, she had seen him disappearing down the drive.

Perhaps he too had come on an errand, she thought, and in that case, the woman would not want her to know that she was to be alone in the chateau. Though little good it would do her.

She followed her guardian dutifully back to the tower room. The tea tray was waiting on the table beside the fire. The woman left the room and Doris heard the key click in the lock as usual. Opening a window, she listened attentively for a while.

She could not see the drive from the tower room, but some fifteen minutes later, she heard the crunch of gravel and the sound of wheels.

That meant that the woman was driving a cart which was probably used for carrying provisions. It also signified that she was going some distance away.

When the sound of the wheels had become indistinct, Doris closed the window and disregarding the tea tray, approached the door with a determined set to her pretty chin.

Somehow she must manage to open that door during her guardian's absence. Such an opportunity might not present itself again.

She examined the lock carefully. It was an old-fashioned contraption. The tongue of the lock which the key manipulated, was visible on the inside of the door. It did not enter the woodwork of the door-jamb but was held secure by a metal bar, the ends of which were screwed into the jamb. The screws were covered with paint which was slightly scarred and showed a trace of rusty surface beneath.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily in the Hollow Tree

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Come right back here, if you please," called Uncle Wiggily's life to him one morning as he started to hop away from the hollow stump bungalow. "Where are you going?"

"To look for an adventure, if you please," answered Mr. Longears. "You know I always go out about this time."

"But not that way!" went on the rabbit lady.

"What way do you want me to go?" her husband asked. "Should I hop out the back door?"

"Goodness not! But I mean you mustn't go out unless you put on a warmer coat," said Mrs. Longears. "It warmer coat and Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods, looking on all sides for an adventure. He thought he had found one, for he saw something poking a tall out of a hole in the ground when, all of a sudden, it began to snow, the cold wind blew and the rabbit gentleman cried:

"My wife was right! We are to have a blizzard. I must find some place of shelter or I will freeze to death in spite of my warm coat." He looked about him and saw through the swirling flakes of snow not far away a hollow tree. "That will be just the place to snuggle in and keep warm until this storm blows over," thought the bunny.

Into the hollow tree he crawled through a hole. Within he found it snug and warm, for no snow could enter, and Uncle Wiggily was making himself at home when, all of a sudden, he heard a scratching on the outside of the hollow tree and a voice said:

"Ah! This is just the place for me!"

"Someone else is coming in my hollow tree!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "I hope it isn't any of the bad chaps, for they can surely catch me here. What shall I do?"

Before he could answer himself he saw the opening of the hollow tree grow dark and a big, hairy body began to push its way in.

"Oh it must be the Wolf!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "But if I keep very still and quiet perhaps he won't know I'm here." So the bunny kept as still and quiet as a little mouse in a piece of cheese.

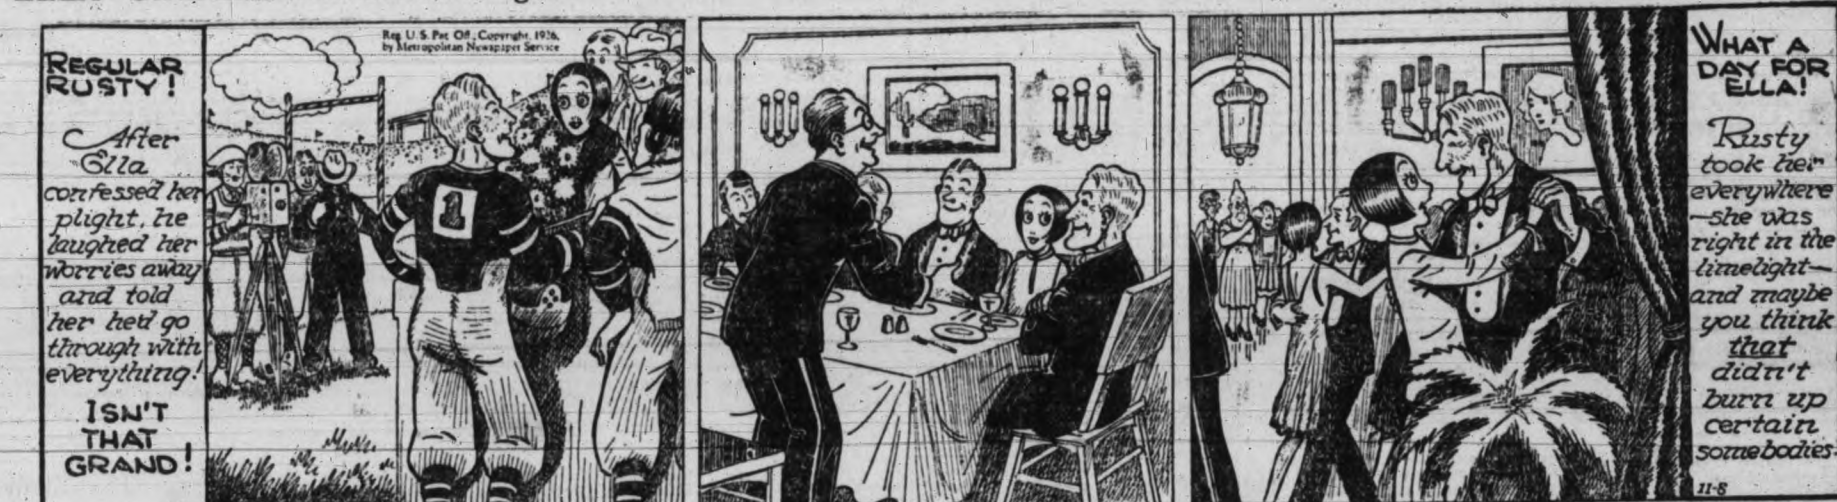

The other creature crowded into the hollow tree, pushing against Uncle Wiggily, and the bunny felt sure he would be found out. But still he kept very still and quiet and the other chap said:

"There! Now I am in and safe from the storm. I'm glad I found this

TELLS HOW VANCOUVER ISLAND WAS RENTED FOR FEW SHILLINGS

Pioneer at Metchosis Draws Graphic Word-picture of Developments Since 1842, With Interesting Reminiscences of Early Settlers

Metchosin, Nov. 15.—The early days of settlement in the Metchosis district were graphically portrayed to an interested audience by Henry C. Helgesen at his home, "Sherwood," Friday night. Mr. Helgesen commenced his narrative by going back to the history of the year 1842, when the Hudson's Bay Company rented the whole of Vancouver Island for a yearly rent of but a few shillings. The Company built a fort and stockade and established men to farm in the Uplands, North Dairy, Craigflower and Langford, and farming and trading were engaged in for some years.

In 1852, continued the speaker, the Morrison brought the first load of immigrants to the island, and the late John Weir came out as head shepherd for the Hudson's Bay Company and settled at what is now the William Head Quarantine Station, and in 1861 "Sherwood," the present home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Helgesen (with, of course, many additions and improvements), was bought by the late Hans Helgesen, father of the present Henry C. Helgesen, and Alexander Helgesen, from a Mr. McGregor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

INDIAN MASSACRE

Mr. Helgesen's personal reminiscences began with his childhood days when the popular beach, known as Witty's Beach, was an Indian camping ground and there were camping places all along the beach, with many huts and houses and where a defence trench had also been made by the Indians. The speaker also told of the massacre of the Sooke Indians by the Cowichan tribe, who camped down and attacked the Sooke tribe whom they outnumbered by many, and practically wiped the Sooke Indians out of existence.

The narration contained many amusing incidents as well as thrilling adventures, and the audience followed the speaker's graphic illustrations of the growth and development of the district with keen interest and pleasure. The arrival and settlement of well known old-timers, some of whom are still living, and others whose families are still residents of the district, was told and their characteristics described in a most amusing and illustrative manner.

BEFORE THE AUTO

A word picture of Metchosin, when roads were not even thought of and nothing but Indian trails provided means of getting about, when neighbors' visits were made on foot, a walk of five or six miles to visit a neighbor being thought little of in those days, and parties and dances were attended miles away, on horseback or in rigs, it sometimes taking two and three days to attend the dance and return home, was drawn by the speaker and elaborated upon with stories pertaining to these old-time social events.

In 1871, fifty-five years ago, the first little schoolhouse was built and the first church, the present St. Mary's Anglican Church, the building of the latter being assisted through the late Bishop Hill. The land, one acre for the school and two acres for the church and cemetery, was given by the late John Witty, and strange to relate, John Witty's was the first body to find a resting place in the land that he gave.

EARLY SETTLERS

Among early settlers, whose arrival and characteristics had been so graphically illustrated by the speaker, were mentioned, Mrs. Rosina; Mrs. Vine, a pioneer, whose skill in surgery and nursing evidently offset a violent temper which caused many amusing incidents; G. Dutton, Captain Ashe of Albert Head, Mrs. Duke; Mr. W. Fisher, who came from England in 1842 and died a few years ago; Mrs. Sweatman and many others who are entitled to the name of pioneers of the district. Later, other industries were introduced.

duced and the first sawmill was erected on what is now known as the Millbank Hill, and around these hills in the Albert Head district much interest lies. Leading from Metchosin one encounters the first hill, which was called "Shirley's Hill," after an old-time character who lived there, and the next hill was known as "Hen's Rest," the name being given, Mr. Helgesen explained, because the first settler who desired to go in for poultry raising had perforce to go to Victoria, to where the birds had been shipped, and then transport the birds in sacks, on horseback, through Metchosin. On this hill the settler decided to stop and rest his horse and eat, and also decided that the hens needed to rest, so their feet were tied and the hens allowed out of the sacks in which they had been confined for so many hours, hence the name of the hill. The part of the road opposite the ranch of the Whitney-Griffiths Bros. was called "Fortification Bridge."

HAPPY VALLEY

Asked how Happy Valley came by its name, Mr. Helgesen told how a man escaped from slavery in America and made his way to the district and his happiness in his freedom caused him to be known as "Happy" and the district in which he lived was called Happy Valley. The work of the pioneers of the district in clearing land by voluntary labor for the school, church and cemetery, the draining of the land and the establishment of roads, Mr. Helgesen spoke of with the highest of praise. Now, where once was only Indian trails are good roads, and where was forest are now farms, showing years of hard work and perseverance in clearing land and tilling the soil.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. F. F. Prudd moved and Mrs. Sweatman seconded a most hearty vote of thanks and the audience testified to their extreme interest and pleasure by loud and prolonged applause, many asserting that this was one of the most interesting local lectures they had ever attended.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR OF VANCOUVER

L. D. Taylor, Present Chief, and Ald. Worthington Start Speaking Campaigns

Vancouver, Nov. 15.—With just three weeks until the close of the campaign, the contest for the two-year mayoralty term in Vancouver is expected to warm up this week.

There will be no meetings in the early part of the week, but before Saturday both candidates will have been heard. Alderman G. H. Worthington has already covered a considerable portion of the city, but Mayor L. D. Taylor has yet to open his speaking campaign.

Both aspirants have been invited to address a luncheon of the Board of Trade on Wednesday at 12:30 p.m.

While not a campaign meeting, that gathering, with the rival candidates appearing, will have great interest for the business men of the city. They have been asked to discuss the proposal that Vancouver, North Vancouver and the surrounding municipalities be amalgamated to make a Greater Vancouver, which is probably the outstanding issue before the city at the present time.

MEETINGS EVERY NIGHT

On Thursday evening Dr. Worthington will address a public meeting in Ash Hall, Victoria Drive, while on the same night Mayor Taylor will deliver his first real speech of the campaign in Renfrew Hall, Twenty-second Avenue and Nootka Street. On Friday evening the Mayor will speak at the Grandview Chamber of Commerce Hall, Commercial Drive. From then until the close of the campaign both candidates will be speaking almost every evening.

Last Friday evening the two candidates were invited to be guests at a social evening held by the Grandview Chamber of Commerce in the Masonic Hall. Mayor Taylor was not present and Alderman Worthington, when called upon to speak, refrained from discussion of election issues, saying he did not wish to take advantage of the absence of his opponent, presumably due to some unavoidable cause.

HELD ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE AT SHIRLEY

Shirley, Nov. 15.—The Shirley school children, with their teacher, Miss Morris, accompanied by many residents of Shirley and Otter Point, attended the service held at 11 a.m. on November 11, at the Memorial at Sooke. The little son of the president of the Shirley Women's Institute, placed a wreath thereon as a tribute to the members.

Mrs. Hewlings and the Misses Gladys and Nora Hewlings, and Mr. Breese, spent the week-end at Malahat Farm.

SALT SPRING MAKES DEVELOPMENT PLANS

Officers of New Organization Named at Meeting Friday

Ganges, Nov. 15.—A public meeting was called at the Mahon Hall on Friday evening, and as the Gulf Islands board of trade has been dissolved some time ago, a Salt Spring Island development league was organized. L. Chaplin was elected president, Arthur Eaton, vice-president, A. Englis, secretary-treasurer for the year.

Quarterly meetings will be held, when all members are requested to attend, and the executive will carry on any business arising between meetings. N. McAfee, J. C. Lang, Mr. Speed and Henry Ruckie were made members of the executive committee. Their first meeting will be held in the Mahon Hall, Thursday evening, December 2.

Armistice services were held at the Shrine on Thursday morning, and the two minutes' silence kept at 11 a.m.

Short addresses were given by the Rev. J. W. Flinton, Rev. Atkins and Rev. Dean, and some beautiful wreaths were laid upon the shrine for the boys of Salt Spring who gave their lives in the great war.

Mr. H. W. Pattinson of Masset, B. C., is the guest of Dr. Lawson for a few days. A reception was held in the Mahon Hall on Friday afternoon, for the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Flinton, the new Anglican minister to Salt Spring.

Mr. C. E. Abbott of Oak Bay spent a few days at Ganges this week. The funeral of Miss Eliza Maxwell (nurse), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Maxwell, Pufford, was held from (the Anglican) St. Mary's Church, Pufford, on Thursday afternoon, in the cemetery adjoining the church. C. E. Abbott of Oak Bay conducted the service. There were many beautiful flowers from Victoria and Salt Spring Island. The pallbearers were: Percy Horel, W. Coopie, Werner Maxwell, Roy Morris, W. Hepburn, Jimmy Akerman. The sympathy of all the Island is extended to the bereaved family.

The funeral service for Hugo Robertson was held in St. Paul's Church, Ganges, Thursday afternoon. Rev. Geo. Atkins officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Flinton, in the Anglican cemetery, near Central.

The pallbearers were: Wm. McAfee, W. Scott, J. S. Scovell, Frank Scott, Jeffrey Scott, Major Rowan.
